Lausche Is Lone Dem To Buck GOP Rush

Governor Gets Unprecedented Fourth Term

Republicans Defeat All Other Democrats On State's Ballot

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5—(AP)—A Republican sweep gave Ohio's 25 presidential electoral votes to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and left Gov. Frank J. Lausche the only elected Democratic official in the Statehouse.

Lausche successfully bucked the GOP tide to become the first four-term governor in Ohio history. His Republican opponent, Charles P. Taft, younger brother of Sen. Robert A. Taft, conceded defeat early Wednesday morning.

"Hearty congratulations on your decisive victory," Taft telegraphed Lausche, who held a 175,000-vote lead with the count completed in about half the polling places.

A later count in 9,[illegible] polling places gave Lausche [illegible] and Taft 1,434,493.

At the same time, [illegible] polling places were giving Eisenhower 1,805,25[illegible] to 1,4[illegible],487 for his Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson.

Lausche later issued the following statement:

"It goes without saying that I am deeply grateful to the citizens of Ohio for their faith in what I have been trying to do.

"I do not believe that the fact that I received more votes than my opponent in itself constitutes victory. Whether I really won or not will be determined at the end of two years by the character and quality of service that I will have rendered as governor."

Lt. Gov. George D. Nye, Lausche's campaign partner, waged a see-saw fight for reelection with John W. Brown, Republican mayor of Medina. After trailing the mayor, Nye forged ahead in the early morning hours but soon slipped behind.

The count in 9,872 of the state's

Countians Back Gov. Lausche And Bricker

Pickaway Countians backed the winners in two of Ohio's most important offices during Tuesday's election.

Countians showed a decided preference for Gov. Frank Lausche and Senator John Bricker, both reelected.

Gov. Lausche drew a total 7,110 votes in the local election, more than the total vote cast for President - Elect Dwight Eisenhower.

His opponent, Republican C. P. Taft, drew only 4,603 votes in the contest here.

U. S. Senator Bricker posted a substantial 6,430-4,608 victory over Democrat Michael DiSalle in the race for that post.

In other state races, countians showed a slight preference for George Nye over John Brown for Lieutenant General (5,545 to 5,158); for Brown over Sweeny for secretary of state (5,498 to 4,883); for Rhodes over Ferguson for auditor (6,192 to 4,685); for Tracy over Gallagher for treasurer (5,751 to 4,647); and O'Neill over Ward for attorney general (5,489 to 4,668).

Ike's Son Elated About Election

SEOUL, Nov. 5—(AP)—"Well, I'm damned! Every now and then something clicks and evidently this one did."

That was Maj. John Eisenhower's first reaction to news saying his father had been elected President of the United States. The only son of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is assigned to the Third Division near the Korean front.

REENDORSED by voters of Pickaway County and Ohio, Gov. Frank Lausche was returned to Ohio's top office by a large majority in Tuesday's election.

Bricker Wins Easily Over Mike DiSalle

Republicans Hoping Blackburn Can Trip Polk In 6th District

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5—(AP)—Republican Sen. John W. Bricker ran far in front in his bid for reelection as Ohio's junior senator and the GOP looked to Leo Blackburn of Portsmouth as their one hope of increasing the already large Ohio delegation to the U. S. Congress.

The 58-year-old Republican senator, once his party's vice presidential candidate and a three-term Ohio governor, held a huge vote edge over his Democratic opponent, Michael V. DiSalle, former national price stabilizer.

The vote from 9,966 of 10,877 polling places was Bricker 1,683,022 and DiSalle 1,426,387.

These figures included 2,192 metropolitan polling places, where Democratic candidates normally plan on offsetting the customary Republican rural majorities.

The Bricker margin steadily widened as results filtered in from precincts swamped with a banner ballot turnout. He never was behind DiSalle.

The Republican trend that swept Ohio's 25 electoral votes into the GOP presidential column showed strongest for Bricker in Ohio's eight metropolitan counties.

Many Abroad Glad Ike Is Poll Winner

LONDON, Nov. 5 — (AP)—Many European officials expressed happiness that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, an old friend, had won the U. S. elections. Areas where Adlai Stevenson feelings had run high were at least hopeful the Republican victory would mean no U. S. withdrawal into isolationism.

In the Middle East, there was hope the Republicans would provide a better deal than the Democrats did in the past.

Officials in Western Europe, most of them on the conservative side, voiced belief the new administration would continue to play a major role in European affairs.

Liberal groups which had favored Stevenson weren't so happy. They were concerned over the extent of GOP Old Guard influence in the new administration. There was no comment from Moscow, where the press had described both Eisenhower and Stevenson as fronts for America's "ruling financial and industrial circles."

City Manager Proposition Defeated 2,196 To 1,559

A city manager administration under a charter form of government was thrown into the discard by Circleville voters in Tuesday's election.

A total of 3,755 citizens of the city went to the polls Tuesday to vote on the proposal.

Of that total, only 1,559 marked their ballots in favor of the issue while the remaining 2,196 voted against it.

Requiring only a simple majority for passage, the charter plan, representing two years of work for many local persons, was defeated by roughly a seven-to-five margin.

IN FACT, the proposal carried its weight in only two precincts of the 13 polling places of the city.

They were 1-A and 1-C, both in the northend, the first with a vote of 358 in favor and 176 against; and the second with 165 in favor and 131 against.

Largest disfavor to the charter was signified by voters south of Main street.

Results of the charter voting, showing unofficial totals for each of the city's 13 precincts, were as follow:

Precinct	For	Against
1-A	358	176
1-B	112	169
1-C	165	131
1-D	56	112
1-E	63	168
2-A	164	183
2-B	135	260
3-A	117	141
3-B	135	260
4-A	64	137
4-B	67	182
4-C	92	214
4-D	30	127
Totals	1,559	2,196

Possibly in no other contest, not even the presidential race, was interest so high as in the outcome of the charter.

MOST LOCAL persons relied on their radios or television for the national race and also showed little interest in the state races.

Biggest single demand was for information concerning the controversial charter proposal, which was to have been last order of business for the poll workers.

First return concerning the charter was from Precinct 1-A, which registered 358 votes favoring and 176 votes opposing.

Charter backers encouraged by that precinct's favorable report, however were discouraged as more precincts reported in.

Following the 1-A report, the elections board received four other precinct reports indicating opposition at about three to one.

The four precincts showed only 267 votes in favor of the proposed charter and a total of 518 against it.

12,280 Persons Flock To Polls In Establishing New Vote Record

Pickaway County voters flocked to the polls in swarms Tuesday to set a new record vote mark here.

A total of 12,280 countians in all exercised their rights to vote in Tuesday's important presidential election.

Mrs. Nellie Stout, clerk to the county board of elections, said that many persons registered at the county's 42 precincts to vote.

However, only 11,943 votes were cast here in the presidential race, meaning those who turned out either lost their vote or failed to mark their presidential ballots.

Tuesday's record voting mark exceeded the former high total of 11,359 cast in 1944 by some 821 ballots.

Local observers pointed out, however, that many more persons eligible to vote failed to turn out. They estimate there are more than 15,000 eligible voters in Pickaway County.

First indication of an extra heavy vote for the county came at noon Tuesday in a spot check of the various polling places in Circleville.

In that check, it was determined the average precinct showed approximately 30 percent increase over the 1948 presidential balloting.

The check showed 1,875 persons had gone to the city polls at noon Tuesday, while only 1,336 had voted at noon on election day four years ago.

Then, later Tuesday afternoon, board of elections officials frantically put in rush orders to the printer to get out more ballots. Some of the polls had run out, although supplied with more than the normal supply for presidential balloting.

AN EXTRA 1,000 ballots were ordered and county deputies stood by to rush the new forms to the precincts needing them.

In all, a total of 12,500 ballots were ordered prior to the election, with the new order swelling the total to 13,500.

However, that final total was not reached since many of the polls ended their hectic day of operations with some ballots on hand.

Elections board officials slumped back after the polls closed at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. It was the first time in recent history when the demand at the polls had ever gone over the available supply.

First of the county's 42 precincts to report results on the presidential race was, unusually, one of Circleville's largest precincts.

Precinct 1-A made first report of its 492 voters at about 7:15 p. m. Tuesday, reporting the swing to Ike at a ratio of two to one.

From that time on, other precincts of the county began coming through fast with their first telephone reports, 15 presidential totals available at 8:15 and 24 at about 9:30 p. m.

The pace slowed at about midnight, however, and complete unofficial totals of the county's presidential race were not available until after 6 a.m.

Commissioner Contest Is Real Battle

Penn, Goode Listed Winners In Close County Race

A contest which seemed to be a walkaway in its early stages developed into a real ding-dong battle before ballot-counting was ended Wednesday morning.

That was the race for two seats on the county commissioner panel, unofficially won by Incumbent Democrat William Goode and Former Commissioner Lyman Penn, Republican.

Early vote - counting Tuesday night indicated strong competition by Clyde Michel, Democrat contender, with Goode holding his own, Penn ranking third and Arnold Reichelderfer, Republican, trailing.

The unofficial total finally brought fourth Wednesday morning showed a reversal of Penn and Michel, Penn leading the pack with 5,208, Goode second with 5,150 and Michel third with 5,028. Reichelderfer finished fourth with 3,846.

UNUSUAL in the balloting—showing the closeness of the vote and guaranteeing a very careful check of the official count—was that none of the top three was separated by more than 180 votes.

By the unofficial count, Goode ran only 58 votes behind Penn to grab off one of the seats for a second term in office and Michel trailed Goode by only 122 votes.

Final decision in the unofficial tabulation was made by seven late-coming precincts, one in Circleville and six in the county area.

Until that time, Goode had paced the field with 106 votes over Michel and 123 votes over Penn.

150 Inmates Being Sent To Camp Perry

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5 — (AP)—Ohio Penitentiary officials Wednesday began transfer of 150 prisoners to Camp Perry on Lake Erie following the collapse of a $1 million prison riot.

The melee brought death to one convict and wounds to four others and a state highway patrolman.

While buses were getting ready for the trip to Camp Perry, prison guards shook down the 1,600 holdout convicts who surrendered late Tuesday inside beleaguered Cellblocks G, H, I and K.

The transfer to Camp Perry will be the largest movement of inmates in the prison's history, even larger than the one in 1930 when a fire killed 320. The movement will give Warden Ralph W. Alvis a place to put "hard core" prisoners while broken cell locks are repaired.

The prisoners were out of control from Friday evening until their surrender Tuesday.

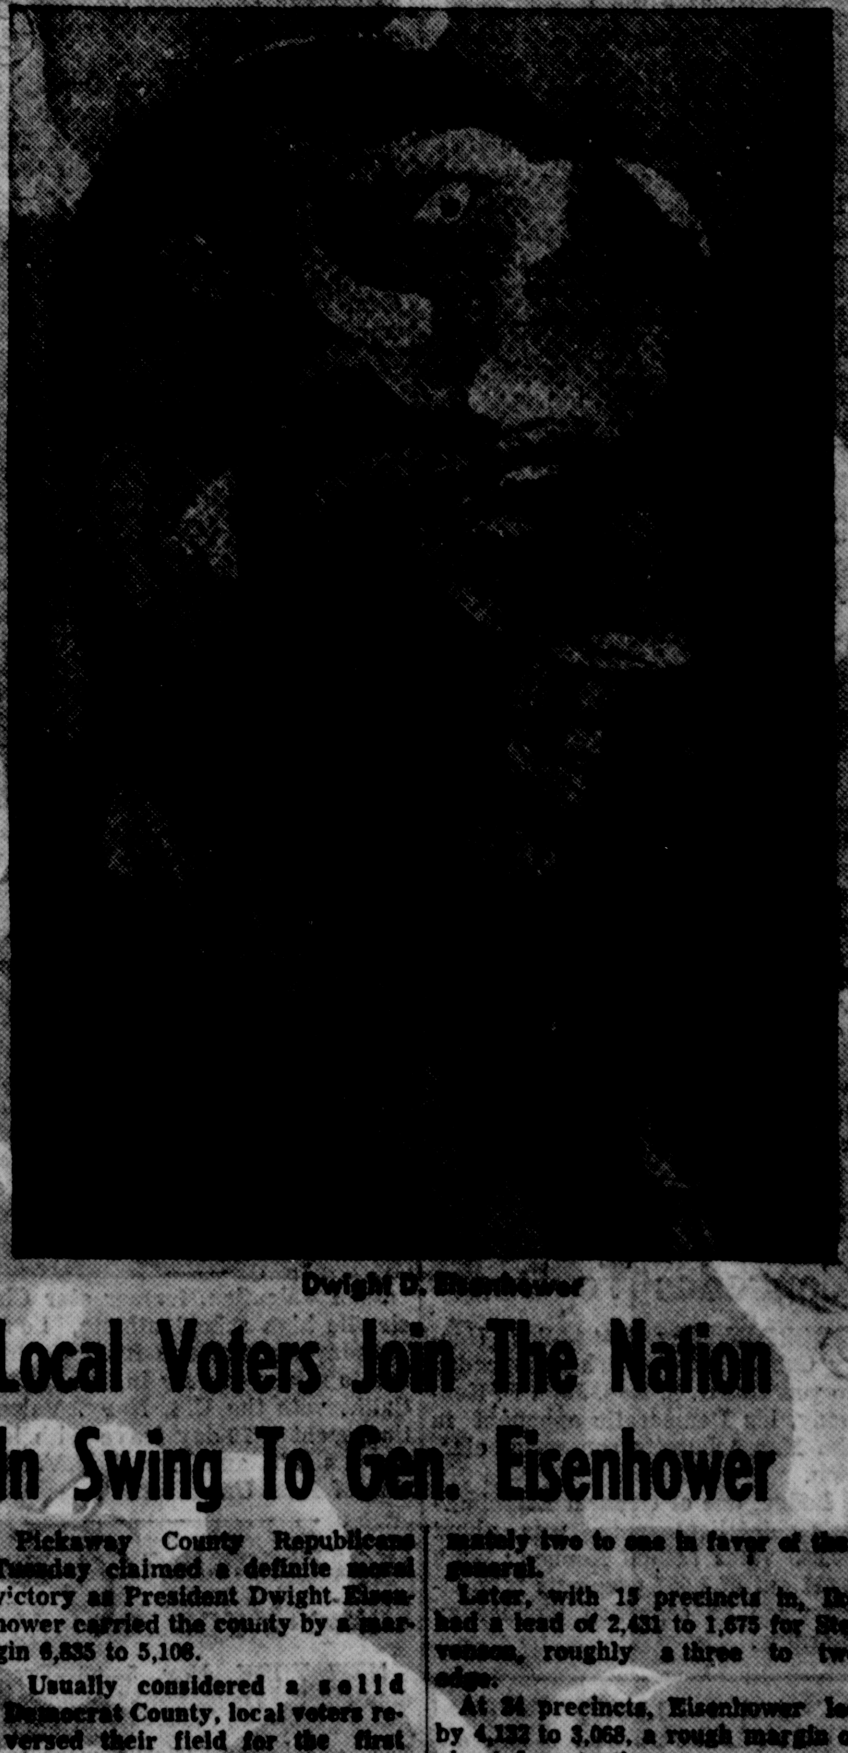
None of the 600 to 800 prisoners Alvis eventually plans to send to the National Guard post near Sandusky on Lake Erie will be from the 1,600 convicts who caused the most trouble. Those to be moved under guard by bus wil be the "best" among the inmates.

Joseph Martin Wins Easily

BOSTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—House minority leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of North Attleboro was reelected Tuesday by a big margin.

The GOP stalwart polled 108,175 to 62,672 for Democrat Edward F. Doolan in complete returns in the 14th Congressional District.

Ike's Biggest Victory



Dwight D. Eisenhower

Local Voters Join The Nation In Swing To Gen. Eisenhower

Pickaway County Republicans Tuesday claimed a definite moral victory as President Dwight Eisenhower carried the county by a margin 6,835 to 5,108.

Usually considered a solid Democrat County, local voters reversed their field for the first time since 1944 to go Republican with a near record turnout.

However, the importance of the office-type ballot in effect was emphasized as local voters exhibited a definite preference for Democrat Gov. Frank Lausche to be returned to office.

In county contests, also, Democrats for the most part were victorious in their campaigns.

AGAIN, in selection of Ohio's senator, local voters showed a decided preference for Incumbent John Bricker, a Republican.

One of the exceedingly close races followed by persons staying up Tuesday night was the battle for county prosecutor.

Several times the lead in the contest switched back and forth between Incumbent Guy Cline, Democrat, and Republican William Ammer.

In the 1944 presidential election here, Gov. Tom Dewey shaded Franklin D. Roosevelt by a narrow 600 votes.

Then, in 1948, the same Mr. Dewey was downed here by less than 400 votes in competition against President Truman.

But Tuesday's victory for Eisenhower in Pickaway County proved the willingness of local voters to be rid of the administration, just as they opposed the fourth-term successful bid by President Roosevelt in 1944.

IN TUESDAY'S balloting, with all but three of Pickaway County's 42 precincts reporting, Eisenhower held an unofficial lead of 6,[illegible] to 4,577.

The local swing to Eisenhower began with the first precinct to make a report.

That was Precinct 1-A, reporting at 7:15 p. m. with a vote total of 492, showing approximately two to one in favor of the general.

Later, with 15 precincts in, Ike had a lead of 2,431 to 1,675 for Stevenson, roughly a three to two edge.

At 24 precincts, Eisenhower led by 4,132 to 3,068, a rough margin of about four to three.

AS THE precinct reports continued to pour into the elections office, Eisenhower's odds margin decreased but the difference in votes over Stevenson remained roughly the same.

With 26 precincts accounted for, Ike led in the county by 4,255 to 3,395, showing a small gain for Stevenson.

At 35 precincts reporting, with only seven more to go, Eisenhower then picked up what he lost earlier to lead by 5,557 to 4,280.

As Stevenson threw in the towel at about 1:45 a. m. Wednesday, Pickaway County had counted 37 precincts, showing 5,718 for Eisenhower and 4,414 for his Democratic opponent.

Ammer Wins By 223 Votes

A new face was admitted to the local political scene Wednesday following a torrid battle.

William Ammer of Circleville scored a narrow victory in Tuesday's election over Incumbent Guy Cline for the post of county prosecuting attorney.

The victory, based on unofficial vote totals, gave Ammer the prosecutor's post with a margin of only 223 votes over Cline.

First reports Tuesday night gave Democrat Cline an edge over the Republican challenger, an edge which spread to 1,512 to 1,237 when the 18th precinct was reported.

However, that final total was not reached since many of the polls ended their hectic day of operations with some ballots on hand.

Elections board officials slumped back after the polls closed at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. It was the first time in recent history when the demand at the polls had ever gone over the available supply.

First of the county's 42 precincts to report results on the presidential race was, unusually, one of Circleville's largest precincts.

Precinct 1-A made first report of its 492 voters at about 7:15 p. m. Tuesday, reporting the swing to Ike at a ratio of two to one.

From that time on, other precincts of the county began coming through fast with their first telephone reports, 15 presidential totals available at 8:15 and 24 at about 9:30 p. m.

The pace slowed at about midnight, however, and complete unofficial totals of the county's presidential race were not available until after 6 a.m.

Commissioner Contest Is Real Battle

Penn, Goode Listed Winners In Close County Race

A contest which seemed to be a walkaway in its early stages developed into a real ding-dong battle before ballot-counting was ended Wednesday morning.

That was the race for two seats on the county commissioner panel, unofficially won by Incumbent Democrat William Goode and Former Commissioner Lyman Penn, Republican.

Early vote - counting Tuesday night indicated strong competition by Clyde Michel, Democrat contender, with Goode holding his own, Penn ranking third and Arnold Reichelderfer, Republican, trailing.

The unofficial total finally brought fourth Wednesday morning showed a reversal of Penn and Michel, Penn leading the pack with 5,208, Goode second with 5,150 and Michel third with 5,028. Reichelderfer finished fourth with 3,846.

UNUSUAL in the balloting—showing the closeness of the vote, and guaranteeing a very careful check of the official count—was that none of the top three was separated by more than 180 votes.

By the unofficial count, Goode ran only 58 votes behind Penn to grab off one of the seats for a second term in office and Michel trailed Goode by only 122 votes.

Final decision in the unofficial tabulation was made by seven late-coming precincts, one in Circleville and six in the county area.

Until that time, Goode had paced the field with 106 votes over Michel and 123 votes over Penn.

150 Inmates Being Sent To Camp Perry

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5 — (AP)—Ohio Penitentiary officials Wednesday began transfer of 150 prisoners to Camp Perry on Lake Erie following the collapse of a $1 million prison riot.

The melee brought death to one convict and wounds to four others and a state highway patrolman.

While buses were getting ready for the trip to Camp Perry, prison guards shook down the 1,600 holdout convicts who surrendered late Tuesday inside beleaguered Cellblocks G, H, I and K.

The transfer to Camp Perry will be the largest movement of inmates in the prison's history, even larger than the one in 1930 when a fire killed 320. The movement will give Warden Ralph W. Alvis a place to put "hard core" prisoners while broken cell locks are repaired.

The prisoners were out of control from Friday evening until their surrender Tuesday.

None of the 600 to 800 prisoners Alvis eventually plans to send to the National Guard post near Sandusky on Lake Erie will be from the 1,600 convicts who caused the most trouble. Those to be moved under guard by bus wil be the "best" among the inmates.

Joseph Martin Wins Easily

BOSTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—House minority leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of North Attleboro was reelected Tuesday by a big margin.

The GOP stalwart polled 108,175 to 62,672 for Democrat Edward F. Doolan in complete returns in the 14th Congressional District.

Ike's Biggest Victory

Dwight D. Eisenhower

Local Voters Join The Nation In Swing To Gen. Eisenhower

Pickaway County Republicans Tuesday claimed a definite moral victory as President Dwight Eisenhower carried the county by a margin 6,835 to 5,108.

Usually considered a solid Democrat County, local voters reversed their field for the first time since 1944 to go Republican with a near record turnout.

However, the importance of the office-type ballot in effect was emphasized as local voters exhibited a definite preference for Democrat Gov. Frank Lausche to be returned to office.

In county contests, also, Democrats for the most part were victorious in their campaigns.

AGAIN, in selection of Ohio's senator, local voters showed a decided preference for Incumbent John Bricker, a Republican.

One of the exceedingly close races followed by persons staying up Tuesday night was the battle for county prosecutor.

Several times the lead in the contest switched back and forth between Incumbent Guy Cline, Democrat, and Republican William Ammer.

In the 1944 presidential election here, Gov. Tom Dewey shaded Franklin D. Roosevelt by a narrow 600 votes.

Then, in 1948, the same Mr. Dewey was downed here by less than 400 votes in competition against President Truman.

But Tuesday's victory for Eisenhower in Pickaway County proved the willingness of local voters to be rid of the administration, just as they opposed the fourth-term successful bid by President Roosevelt in 1944.

IN TUESDAY'S balloting, with all but three of Pickaway County's 42 precincts reporting, Eisenhower held an unofficial lead of 6,082 to 4,577.

The local swing to Eisenhower began with the first precinct to make a report.

That was Precinct 1-A, reporting at 7:15 p. m. with a vote total of 492, showing approximately two to one in favor of the general.

Later, with 15 precincts in, Ike had a lead of 2,431 to 1,675 for Stevenson, roughly a three to two edge.

At 24 precincts, Eisenhower led by 4,132 to 3,068, a rough margin of about four to three.

AS THE precinct reports continued to pour into the elections office, Eisenhower's odds margin decreased but the difference in votes over Stevenson remained roughly the same.

With 26 precincts accounted for, Ike led in the county by 4,255 to 3,395, showing a small gain for Stevenson.

At 35 precincts reporting, with only seven more to go, Eisenhower then picked up what he lost earlier to lead by 5,557 to 4,280.

As Stevenson threw in the towel at about 1:45 a. m. Wednesday, Pickaway County had counted 37 precincts, showing 5,718 for Eisenhower and 4,414 for his Democratic opponent.

Ammer Wins By 223 Votes

A new face was admitted to the local political scene Wednesday following a torrid battle.

William Ammer of Circleville scored a narrow victory in Tuesday's election over Incumbent Guy Cline for the post of county prosecuting attorney.

The victory, based on unofficial vote totals, gave Ammer the prosecutor's post with a margin of only 223 votes over Cline.

First reports Tuesday night gave Democrat Cline an edge over the Republican challenger, an edge which spread to 1,512 to 1,267 when the 15th precinct was reported.

FROM THAT point, however, Ammer's total began to creep upward until, with 35 polls reporting, he held a 131-vote lead over Cline.

Cline was seeking reelection for a second term at the prosecutor post. Ammer is an aide on the Ohio attorney general's staff.

Ike Landslide New Mark In Popular Vote

Eisenhower Shatters 20-Year Dem Reign, Cracks Solid South

By The Associated Press

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower smashed all voting records today as he won the presidency in a sprawling landslide that left control of Congress teetering in the balance between Republicans and Democrats.

Americans who liked Ike gave the 62-year-old war hero the greatest vote ever poured out for a presidential candidate as he forclosed a 20-year Democratic mortgage on the White House and sent Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois down to crushing defeat.

With about 29,000 precincts yet to be tabulated, Eisenhower already had rolled up 29,124,001 votes—far over the previous record of 27,751,597 set by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 and far out-distancing Wendell L. Willkie's Republican highwater mark of 22,305,198 in 1940.

Stevenson has polled 23,470,798 votes of the total of 52,594,799.

The voters from New York to California and from Minnesota to Texas liked Ike in emphatic terms, they were somewhat less certain it was "time for a change" in the Congress the Democrats have dominated for the last four years.

CONTROL OF BOTH the House and Senate remained in doubt in mounting returns from Tuesday's record-smashing election.

Even if his party couldn't keep pace with him in the far corners of the land, the 62-year-old warrior-statesman had a personal mandate from the voters matching in volume that given Herbert Hoover, his last Republican predecessor in 1928, and rivalling those for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In his sweep, Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans haven't been able to capture since 1924, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Complete tabulations of the way Pickaway County voters cast their ballots in Tuesday's elections may be found in the inside section of this issue of The Herald.

He won or was out in front in 15 states where the Republicans have not had a presidential victory since 1928—Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

In some respects, Eisenhower's was more of a personal than a party victory. Although he helped elect Republican administrations in many states, there was tough sledding for the GOP in Senate and House battles and gubernatorial races.

The general's friend and one of his earliest presidential rooters, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., conceded defeat by his Democratic opponent, Rep. John F. Kennedy in the Massachusetts senatorial race. Republican Sen. James P. Kem of Missouri went down to defeat and

Wallace Returns To Ohio House

Ed Wallace of Circleville was reelected Tuesday to serve his second term of office in the Ohio house of representatives.

Wallace retained the representative post by scoring a wide victory over Republican Carl Bennett in the balloting.

Final unofficial total in the representative race was 6,197 for Wallace, 4,661 for Bennett.

Ike Won Because: (1) He Was Ike, (2) Voters Fed Up With Trumanism

By JAMES MARLOW
P News Analyst

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — (AP)— Gen. Dwight Eisenhower won the presidency for various reasons which can be reduced to two, one personal, the other political: He was Eisenhower; and the voters were fed up with the Truman administration.

The proof of his personal drawing power was the fact that he ran far ahead of his party. His immense popularity and the public confidence in him already established, gave him an overwhelming advantage from the start.

Stevenson, unknown outside Illinois until his nomination, had to begin his campaign from scratch.

Even so, Eisenhower's great prestige might have been offset by the unknown Stevenson, merely because he was the Democratic candidate, if there had been no real issues and the voters were satisfied with the Democrats.

But Eisenhower inherited a bundle of issues which the Republicans had been harping on for years and which put Stevenson in an even worse spot: He was in a defensive position from the start.

The Republicans made the most of high taxes, high prices, exposure of crookedness and flexible ethics in the Democratic administration, and the stalemated Korean war. They stimulated further doubt about the administration with their endless charges of Communists in government.

For Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had shepherded them out of a depression and successfully through most of World War II, the people developed an amazing confidence which they exhibited by electing him four times. It was as if they considered him a wise father who could lead them through darkness and danger.

They had less faith in the Democrats under President Truman, as they showed when they had their first chance to, which was in the congressional elections of 1946. Going into that election the Democrats controlled both houses of Congress. But the Republicans said: "Had enough? The voters apparently thought they did. They elected Republican majorities in the House and Senate.

When it came time for the presidential race in 1948 the Republicans tried the "had enough?" slogan again. It worked in reverse After watching the Republicans in Congress for two years, the voters thought they had enough of them. They reelected Truman and put Democratic majorities in both houses.

But the Democratic victory in 1948 was not an overpowering display of voter confidence in the party. Truman barely squeaked back into the White House and the Democrats had a congressional majority by a hairline.

The problems and complications that developed over the next four years sapped voter faith in the Democrats. "Time for a change," the Republicans said in 1952. It was almost as if they had wrapped up in one easy sentence the accumulated dissatisfactions of many people.

Bricker Wins Easily Over Mike DiSalle

it was cutting deeply into normal Democratic margins.

In Cuyahoga County, for instance, DiSalle held a 42,000-vote edge with 1,200 of 1,981 polling places reported, but Bricker was ahead in Franklin (Columbus), Hamilton (Cincinnati) and Stark (Canton) counties.

DiSalle was leading narrowly in Lucas (Toledo), his home county; Mahoning (Youngstown); Montgomery (Dayton) and Summit (Akron) Counties.

The point was, DiSalle's margin in the last-named counties was so narrow they couldn't cope with down-state rural majorities piled up for Bricker.

Blackburn, a state senator from Portsmouth, was battling to unseat Democrat James Polk in the Sixth District.

Returns from 458 of 462 polling places gave Polk 66,412 to 66,023 for Blackburn, a difference of 389 votes. The four uncounted precincts are all in Scioto County.

Polk was the only Congressman of his party in Ohio threatened with being returned to private life.

If Blackburn can forge ahead, Ohio Republicans in Congress would be increased from 16 to 17. If Polk wins, the Ohio congressional delegation probably will be the same as now:

16 Republicans, six Democrats, and one independent.

THE INDEPENDENT is Frazier Reams of Toledo, who appeared to be winning his reelection fight in a three-cornered race in the Ninth District.

Thomas H. Burke, Democrat, was trailing Reams, and Republican Gilmore Flues was finishing a strong third.

But if the percentage of Republicans and Democrats were about the same as in the 82nd Congress, some faces were different.

In the newly boundaried 11th District, Attorney Oliver P. Bolton was elected congressman, the first elective job he has ever held.

Like his mother, Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton, "Ollie" Bolton, 35, is a Republican. She, too, was elected, and together they will make the first mother-son team ever to serve in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Mrs. Bolton lives in Lyndhurst, a Cleveland suburb. Her son lives in Mentor, and his district is adjacent to hers. They both say they often disagree on political matters and won't necessarily vote the same way in Congress.

Other Ohio congressonal district results (X—denotes incumbent):

Fifth, 329 of 409, Dan Batt (D) 31,329 Cliff Clevenger (R-X) 55,750.

Seventh, Clarence J. Brown (R-X), unopposed.

Tenth, 313 of 378, Delmar A. Canaday (D) 27,405, Thomas A. Jenkins (R-X) 48,000.

Brooklyn Couple Hurt In Crash

A Brooklyn man and his wife were injured early Wednesday in an accident on Route 22 at Route 138, about six miles west of town.

The accident happened at about 7:30 a. m. when an auto operated by Mrs. Mary Louise Francis, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., went out of control and struck a cement culvert.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the car was travelling east on Route 22 when it went out of control. It swerved to the left side of the road and travelled 303 feet before striking the culvert.

Radcliff said the auto was completely destroyed in the crash.

Mrs. Francis was treated in Berger hospital for an injured left knee and mouth and jaw injuries; and her husband, Capt. Michael Francis, 32, was treated for a fractured leg, mouth injuries, lacerated face and lacerated right eye.

City High Pupils Like Stevenson

Apparently Circleville high school boys and girls do not share their parents' views of the national political situation.

While a majority of the voters going to the polls here Tuesday were casting their ballots for Dwight Eisenhower, a "straw vote" was held in the upper five grades of the high school.

The Circleville pupils showed favor toward Stevenson, with the largest pro-Stevenson boom in the eighth grade.

Senator Lodge Concedes To Dem

BOSTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R) has conceded to youthful U. S. Rep. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic opponent in the Massachusetts senatorial election.

Lodge, one of General Eisenhower's chief lieutenants, was about 80,000 votes behind Kennedy with 1,621 out of 1,967 precincts tabulated when he conceded Wednesday morning.

Ike Landslide New Mark In Popular Vote

Sen. Harry Cain of Washington was trailing.

Stevenson philosophically conceded Eisenhower the victory at his Springfield, Ill., headquarters at 1:45 a. m. (EST) Wednesday with a call for all Americans to "close ranks" and a pledge of support for the general.

In New York, Eisenhower matched this call for unity, saying his was "a day of dedication rather than triumph" and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his new responsibilities.

On a wave of popular approval for the general's promise to make the accomplishment of world peace his primary job, Eisenhower carried into office with him some of the prime targets of Democratic attack in the campaign.

The Eisenhower victory, promising a critical new look into domestic affairs but little actual change in foreign policies, apparently was manufactured out of these ingredients: The general's personal popularity plus the crumbling of the Democratic coalition of organized labor and the minority groups with the traditional party strength in the South.

This coalition, which gave Roosevelt four elections and Truman one, fell apart.

To the extent Truman made his administration's record an issue in the campaign, the vote was one of "no confidence" in that record.

IT COULD ALSO be interpreted as a repudiation of the Democratic claim that Americans "never had it so good," in favor of Eisenhower's promise to try to build a prosperity based on peace and not, as he said, on war orders.

Eisenhower packed the Midwestern farm vote in his bag, apparently divided the labor union vote with Stevenson and swept the big states despite his inability to carry such Democratic centers as New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

His victory in Florida and his showing in Texas undoubtedly will be credited in part to his stand for state ownership of the potentially oil-rich submerged lands along their coasts.

His sweep in Virginia could be attributed in part to Sen. Harry F. Byrd's statement that he could not support Stevenson, because the latter had embraced "Trumanism." Byrd did not, however, endorse Eisenhower.

In Illinois, which Stevenson had carried in 1948 by the greatest majority ever given a governor there, Eisenhower won with downstate votes when the Chicago Democratic organization failed to turn out the expected big majorities for Stevenson in the metropolis.

Missouri, which went overwhelmingly for Truman in 1948, was headed into the GOP parade.

Eisenhower's victory in his first political campaign means that to comply with his pre-election promise, he must undertake an inspection trip to Korea in the period when most Presidents-elect would busy themselves with organizing their new administration.

THE GENERAL said he would go to Korea to get information, with no attempt to "boss" operations there, but with the idea of trying to find some honorable way to end the 28-month-old conflict.

How soon he will undertake the trip remained to be decided by the general after conferences with his advisers.

At the same time, Eisenhower was expected to be invited by President Truman to sit in on conferences dealing with foreign affairs and domestic problems, particularly the calculation of the new budget.

Preliminary planning already has been done on the budget, which Eisenhower has said must be reduced below this year's level of $79 billion. There have been indications that military spending will be trimmed back from about $46 billion to around $41 billion in the figures being assembled by President Truman.

2 Bond Issues Fail To Pass; Voters Okay 6 School Levies

Pickaway County and Circleville city bond issues failed to carry in Tuesday's election, but all school district levies rode to victory by comfortable margins. Ashville's school district bond issue was approved.

A 1.5 mill levy proposed to finance new bridge construction projects in four Pickaway County townships was defeated, 3,692 to 4,752, in the complete unofficial tally.

A Circleville city issue for sewer system improvements apparently had failed by a narrow margin to gain the necessary 55 percent of the total votes cast.

The final tally showed 1,599 votes for the proposal and 1,413 opposed, giving the measure approximately 53 percent.

WHILE rejecting the bond issues, city and county voters also turned down by a lopsided margin a proposal to amend the Ohio state constitution. The vote was 1,996 for the proposal and 6,701 opposed.

Meanwhile, Ashville's village levy was approved, 298 to 212.

Also successful, but by a runaway margin, was the Ashville school district bond issue to finance construction of additional class rooms for the village school. The issue carried, 606 to 122.

A village levy for Williamsport was okayed, 174 to 97.

Six school district levies in Pickaway County were also approved.

The levies and their final tally were as follows:

Jackson, 157 for and 88 against; Muhlenberg, 142 for and 44 against; Saltcreek, 333 for and 121 against; Walnut, 256 for and 195 against; Washington, 191 for and 79 against; and Wayne, 139 for and 51 against.

Governor Gets Unprecedented Fourth Term

STATE DEMOCRATIC Chairman Eugene H. Hanhart conceded Ohio to Eisenhower shortly after midnight. The general then led his opponent, Democratic Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson by nearly 40,000 votes in a third of the polling places.

State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss proffered an early prediction that Eisenhower would carry the state by 200,000 votes, the same margin Hanhart forecast for Lausche as the voting headed towards a record-four million votes.

Lausche gained steadily as the count progressed. But his popularity failed to add his usual pulling power to the rest of the state and national ticket.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, Democratic fixture in that office for 16 years, failed to recover his vote-getting form after the thumping he got from Sen. Taft two years ago. Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus waged one of the campaign's most slam-bang battles to keep Ferguson from a fifth four-year term.

Returns from 9,198 polling places gave Rhodes 1,525,453 and Ferguson 1,251,619.

Radcliff Scores Win; To Begin 23rd Year

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff scored a comfortable victory over Willison H. Leist in Tuesday's election to begin his 23rd year at that post.

Radcliff scored a three-to-two win over Republican Leist in the contest, winning reelection by 6,942 to 4,479.

The sheriff, with two two-year terms and five four-year terms behind him, will begin his 23rd year in the office next February.

In the voting, Radcliff captured all but two of the county's 42 precincts. He lost in Perry Township West by one vote and in Wayne Township by 42 votes.

Ike Won Because: (1) He Was Ike, (2) Voters Fed Up With Trumanism

By JAMES MARLOW
P News Analyst

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — (AP)— Gen. Dwight Eisenhower won the presidency for various reasons which can be reduced to two, one personal, the other political: He was Eisenhower; and the voters were fed up with the Truman administration.

The proof of his personal drawing power was the fact that he ran far ahead of his party. His immense popularity and the public confidence in him already established, gave him an overwhelming advantage from the start.

Stevenson, unknown outside Illinois until his nomination, had to begin his campaign from scratch.

Even so, Eisenhower's great prestige might have been offset by the unknown Stevenson, merely because he was the Democratic candidate, if there had been no real issues and the voters were satisfied with the Democrats.

But Eisenhower inherited a bundle of issues which the Republicans had been harping on for years and which put Stevenson in an even worse spot: He was in a defensive position from the start.

The Republicans made the most of high taxes, high prices, exposure of crookedness and flexible ethics in the Democratic administration, and the stalemated Korean war. They stimulated further doubt about the administration with their endless charges of Communists in government.

For Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had shepherded them out of a depression and successfully through most of World War II, the people developed an amazing confidence which they exhibited by electing him four times. It was as if they considered him a wise father who could lead them through darkness and danger.

They had less faith in the Democrats under President Truman, as they showed when they had their first chance to, which was in the congressional elections of 1946. Going into that election the Democrats controlled both houses of Congress. But the Republicans said: "Had enough? The voters apparently thought they did. They elected Republican majorities in the House and Senate.

When it came time for the presidential race in 1948 the Republicans tried the "had enough?" slogan again. It worked in reverse After watching the Republicans in Congress for two years, the voters thought they had enough of them. They reelected Truman and put Democratic majorities in both houses.

But the Democratic victory in 1948 was not an overpowering display of voter confidence in the party. Truman barely squeaked back into the White House and the Democrats had a congressional majority by a hairline.

The problems and complications that developed over the next four years sapped voter faith in the Democrats. "Time for a change," the Republicans said in 1952. It was almost as if they had wrapped up in one easy sentence the accumulated dissatisfactions of many people.

Bricker Wins Easily Over Mike DiSalle

it was cutting deeply into normal Democratic margins.

In Cuyahoga County, for instance, DiSalle held a 42,000-vote edge with 1,200 of 1,981 polling places reported, but Bricker was ahead in Franklin (Columbus), Hamilton (Cincinnati) and Stark (Canton) counties.

DiSalle was leading narrowly in Lucas (Toledo), his home county; Mahoning (Youngstown); Montgomery (Dayton) and Summit (Akron) Counties.

The point was, DiSalle's margin in the last-named counties was so narrow they couldn't cope with down-state rural majorities piled up for Bricker.

Blackburn, a state senator from Portsmouth, was battling to unseat Democrat James Polk in the Sixth District.

Returns from 458 of 462 polling places gave Polk 66,412 to 66,023 for Blackburn, a difference of 389 votes. The four uncounted precincts are all in Scioto County.

Polk was the only Congressman of his party in Ohio threatened with being returned to private life.

If Blackburn can forge ahead, Ohio Republicans in Congress would be increased from 16 to 17. If Polk wins, the Ohio congressional delegation probably will be the same as now:

16 Republicans, six Democrats, and one independent.

THE INDEPENDENT is Frazier Reams of Toledo, who appeared to be winning his reelection fight in a three-cornered race in the Ninth District.

Thomas H. Burke, Democrat, was trailing Reams, and Republican Gilmore Flues was finishing a strong third.

But if the percentage of Republicans and Democrats were about the same as in the 82nd Congress, some faces were different.

In the newly boundaried 11th District, Attorney Oliver P. Bolton was elected congressman, the first elective job he has ever held.

Like his mother, Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton, "Ollie" Bolton, 35, is a Republican. She, too, was elected, and together they will make the first mother-son team ever to serve in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Mrs. Bolton lives in Lyndhurst, a Cleveland suburb. Her son lives in Mentor, and his district is adjacent to hers. They both say they often disagree on political matters and won't necessarily vote the same way in Congress.

Other Ohio congressonal district results (X—denotes incumbent):

Fifth, 329 of 409, Dan Batt (D) 31,329 Cliff Clevenger (R-X) 55,750.

Seventh, Clarence J. Brown (R-X), unopposed.

Tenth, 313 of 378, Delmar A. Canaday (D) 27,405, Thomas A. Jenkins (R-X) 48,000.

Brooklyn Couple Hurt In Crash

A Brooklyn man and his wife were injured early Wednesday in an accident on Route 22 at Route 138, about six miles west of town.

The accident happened at about 7:30 a. m. when an auto operated by Mrs. Mary Louise Francis, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., went out of control and struck a cement culvert.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the car was travelling east on Route 22 when it went out of control. It swerved to the left side of the road and travelled 303 feet before striking the culvert.

Radcliff said the auto was completely destroyed in the crash.

Mrs. Francis was treated in Berger hospital for an injured left knee and mouth and jaw injuries; and her husband, Capt. Michael Francis, 32, was treated for a fractured leg, mouth injuries, lacerated face and lacerated right eye.

City High Pupils Like Stevenson

Apparently Circleville high school boys and girls do not share their parents' views of the national political situation.

While a majority of the voters going to the polls here Tuesday were casting their ballots for Dwight Eisenhower, a "straw vote" was held in the upper five grades of the high school.

The Circleville pupils showed favor toward Stevenson, with the largest pro-Stevenson boom in the eighth grade.

Senator Lodge Concedes To Dem

BOSTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R) has conceded to youthful U. S. Rep. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic opponent in the Massachusetts senatorial election.

Lodge, one of General Eisenhower's chief lieutenants, was about 80,000 votes behind Kennedy with 1,621 out of 1,967 precincts tabulated when he conceded Wednesday morning.

Ike Landslide New Mark In Popular Vote

Sen. Harry Cain of Washington was trailing.

Stevenson philosophically conceded Eisenhower the victory at his Springfield, Ill., headquarters at 1:45 a. m. (EST) Wednesday with a call for all Americans to "close ranks" and a pledge of support for the general.

In New York, Eisenhower matched this call for unity, saying his was "a day of dedication rather than triumph" and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his new responsibilities.

On a wave of popular approval for the general's promise to make the accomplishment of world peace his primary job, Eisenhower carried into office with him some of the prime targets of Democratic attack in the campaign.

The Eisenhower victory, promising a critical new look into domestic affairs but little actual change in foreign policies, apparently was manufactured out of these ingredients: The general's personal popularity plus the crumbling of the Democratic coalition of organized labor and the minority groups with the traditional party strength in the South.

This coalition, which gave Roosevelt four elections and Truman one, fell apart.

To the extent Truman made his administration's record an issue in the campaign, the vote was one of "no confidence" in that record.

IT COULD ALSO be interpreted as a repudiation of the Democratic claim that Americans "never had it so good," in favor of Eisenhower's promise to try to build a prosperity based on peace and not, as he said, on war orders.

Eisenhower packed the Midwestern farm vote in his bag, apparently divided the labor union vote with Stevenson and swept the big states despite his inability to carry such Democratic centers as New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

His victory in Florida and his showing in Texas undoubtedly will be credited in part to his stand for state ownership of the potentially oil-rich submerged lands along their coasts.

His sweep in Virginia could be attributed in part to Sen. Harry F. Byrd's statement that he could not support Stevenson, because the latter had embraced "Trumanism." Byrd did not, however, endorse Eisenhower.

In Illinois, which Stevenson had carried in 1948 by the greatest majority ever given a governor there, Eisenhower won with downstate votes when the Chicago Democratic organization failed to turn out the expected big majorities for Stevenson in the metropolis.

Missouri, which went overwhelmingly for Truman in 1948, was headed into the GOP parade.

Eisenhower's victory in his first political campaign means that to comply with his pre-election promise, he must undertake an inspection trip to Korea in the period when most Presidents-elect would busy themselves with organizing their new administration.

THE GENERAL said he would go to Korea to get information, with no attempt to "boss" operations there, but with the idea of trying to find some honorable way to end the 28-month-old conflict.

How soon he will undertake the trip remained to be decided by the general after conferences with his advisers.

At the same time, Eisenhower was expected to be invited by President Truman to sit in on conferences dealing with foreign affairs and domestic problems, particularly the calculation of the new budget.

Preliminary planning already has been done on the budget, which Eisenhower has said must be reduced below this year's level of $79 billion. There have been indications that military spending will be trimmed back from about $46 billion to around $41 billion in the figures being assembled by President Truman.

2 Bond Issues Fail To Pass; Voters Okay 6 School Levies

Pickaway County and Circleville city bond issues failed to carry in Tuesday's election, but all school district levies rode to victory by comfortable margins. Ashville's school district bond issue was approved.

A 1.5 mill levy proposed to finance new bridge construction projects in four Pickaway County townships was defeated, 3,692 to 4,752, in the complete unofficial tally.

A Circleville city issue for sewer system improvements apparently had failed by a narrow margin to gain the necessary 55 percent of the total votes cast.

The final tally showed 1,599 votes for the proposal and 1,413 opposed, giving the measure approximately 53 percent.

WHILE rejecting the bond issues, city and county voters also turned down by a lopsided margin a proposal to amend the Ohio state constitution. The vote was 1,996 for the proposal and 6,701 opposed.

Meanwhile, Ashville's village levy was approved, 298 to 212.

Also successful, but by a runaway margin, was the Ashville school district bond issue to finance construction of additional class rooms for the village school. The issue carried, 606 to 122.

A village levy for Williamsport was okayed, 174 to 97.

Six school district levies in Pickaway County were also approved. The levies and their final tally were as follows:

Jackson, 157 for and 88 against; Muhlenberg, 142 for and 44 against; Saltcreek, 333 for and 121 against; Walnut, 256 for and 195 against; Washington, 191 for and 79 against; and Wayne, 139 for and 51 against.

Governor Gets Unprecedented Fourth Term

10,877 polling places gave Brown 1,505,866 to 1,469,692 for Nye.

STATE DEMOCRATIC Chairman Eugene H. Hanhart conceded Ohio to Eisenhower shortly after midnight. The general then led his opponent, Democratic Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson by nearly 40,000 votes in a third of the polling places.

State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss proffered an early prediction that Eisenhower would carry the state by 200,000 votes, the same margin Hanhart forecast for Lausche as the voting headed towards a record-four million votes.

Lausche gained steadily as the count progressed. But his popularity failed to add his usual pulling power to the rest of the state and national ticket.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, Democratic fixture in that office for 16 years, failed to recover his vote-getting form after the thumping he got from Sen. Taft two years ago. Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus waged one of the campaign's most slam-bang battles to keep Ferguson from a fifth four-year term.

Returns from 9,198 polling places gave Rhodes 1,525,453 and Ferguson 1,251,619.

REPUBLICAN incumbents for other state offices took commanding leads early.

Secretary of state, 9,498 polling places, Charles F. Sweeney (D) 1,299,293, Ted W. Brown (R) 1,544,014.

Treasurer, 9,398 polling places, John J. Gallagher (D) 1,212,493, Roger W. Tracy (R) 1,603,683

Attorney General, 9,498 polling places, Paul F. Ward (D) 1,188,212, C. William O'Neill (R) 1,613,354.

Supreme Court, Jan. 1 term, 8,645 polling places, Charles B. Zimmerman (D) 1,140,317, Francis B. Douglass (R) 1,050,047.

Supreme Court, Jan. 2 term, 8,645 polling places, Kenneth B. Johnston (D) 657,767, James Garfield Stewart (R) 1,457,625.

Radcliff Scores Win; To Begin 23rd Year

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff scored a comfortable victory over Willison H. Leist in Tuesday's election to begin his 23rd year at that post.

Radcliff scored a three-to-two win over Republican Leist in the contest, winning reelection by 6,942 to 4,479.

The sheriff, with two two-year terms and five four-year terms behind him, will begin his 23rd year in the office next February.

In the voting, Radcliff captured all but two of the county's 42 precincts. He lost in Perry Township West by one vote and in Wayne Township by 42 votes.

Council Clears Way For Boost In Gas Rates For Circleville

Circleville's city council, resisting an urge to get away early for election returns, deliberated for three hours Tuesday night on subjects ranging from a local natural gas rate increase to a new traffic light for the southend.

The lawmakers passed an ordinance which clears the way for an increase in rates charged customers of Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

Over protests of Councilman Ray Cook, decision was delayed on a traffic light requested for the junction of Dunmore Road and South Court street.

Another highlight in a session that covered many things came in a query by Councilman George Crites just prior to adjournment. He asked City Solicitor George Gerhardt:

"What would be the first step necessary toward establishment of a municipal court in Circleville?"

QUESTION of a municipal court, linked with the city charter controversy during the election campaign, was discussed only briefly.

Gerhardt explained the court could be established here by act of state legislature and suggested the "first step" would be to "have the elected or re-elected representative come before council to discuss the matter."

Way for the gas rate hike was cleared when council, at request of Ohio Fuel Gas Co., repealed a binding ordinance and replaced it with one which sets a higher rate spread over the next five years.

Prior to council's approval, on the third and final reading of the new ordinance, Crites asked if the utility could give the city "free gas" for the next two years.

Under the repealed measure, the gas rate would have remained unchanged for that period.

Frank W. Phillips, district manager of the utility, told Crites he saw "no objection from the monetary viewpoint "to the "free gas" proposal, but pointed out such a practice has been abolished for some time.

PHILLIPS STRESSED that both the federal power commission and the Ohio public utilities commission oppose the practice.

"It could be construed as a bribe on the part of the company," Phillips pointed out, "although we all know that no such intention would be held in such a gesture."

Phillips added:

"Anything else we can do to hep Circleville, however, we'll certainly try to do."

Following unanimous approval of the company's request, Phillips addressed council to say:

"We're going to try to give the best gas service you've ever had in Circleville."

At the opening of the meeting, Cook urged a traffic light for school-time operation be placed at Dunmore road and South Court street. A delegation of residents from that vicinity recently complained children face a traffic hazard there in crossing South Court to get to Walnut school.

WHEN COOK pressed for action, council became involved in a discussion over whether newly installed traffic lights actually reduce hazards.

Crites and Councilman Harold Clifton contended the matter should be held for study since, in their opinion, a new light at the spot requested might increase dangers for both the children and motorists.

"I don't think it's too hard to figure out how to do what we know we'll have to do anyway in the end," Cook insisted. With support of Councilman Boyd Horn, he urged an ordinance be prepared on his request but yielded finally on one condition.

Cook emphasized that responsibility in the matter must now be assumed by council as a whole and not by the safety committee which Cook heads.

This was agreed in delaying action on the request.

Council President Ben Gordon said men from the state highway department will be in Circleville Thursday in connection with the Route 23 bypass question and suggested that councilmen seek their views on various phases of traffic light problems here.

A FALLACY

PERHAPS ONE OF THE leading fallacies of the times is the assumption that a left winger is a liberal and a right winger a reactionary.

The left winger of today thinks and acts in terms of ever more powerful government. The right winger, while usually willing to concede that some regulation is necessary, wants to minimize it, abolishing the freedom of the individual to act for himself.

Indeed, the right wingers of today are closer to true liberalism of the nineteenth century than are the left wingers.

The left winger would have the government do everything and finally own everything. Then there would be that total government which such great liberals as Jefferson denounced and from which ancestors of Americans of today fled to establish this nation of individual and political freedom.

The left winger is trending toward the ultimate in reaction, which is the individual completely dominated by the state. The right winger is at least fighting a delaying action against that trend, and is being termed a reactionary for his pains.

AN ENCOURAGING EFFORT

IN MANILA A NEW Philippine spirit of responsibility and even leadership is clearly developing. Since 1945 the government has been whipsawed by its factions. Resentment over the crimp in Japanese reparations, doubts and fears concerning American trade, a slow-moving land reform, and the Hukbalahap troubles have helped contribute toward a fumbling and neurotic approach to the big problem: security in the Pacific.

But the Manila conference, just over, indicates the political typhoon season is about over too. Even the maverick Nationalist Party seems to be getting behind President Quirino in his push for ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty of San Francisco. Even more encouraging, is Quirino's making a major creative effort toward a mutual defense system for all the old and new countries of the western Pacific and southeastern Asia. That may be a long time coming.

But the very fact that the president of the Philippines is for such a union is good for the whole climate of Pacific security.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Americans employed by the United Nations take an oath of loyalty to the United Nations. The question then arises whether an American can take an oath of loyalty and obedience to an international body which may sit in judgment of the United States and which can vote against the United States should a situation arise.

This is the oath:

"I solemnly swear to exercise, in all loyalty, discretion and conscience, the functions entrusted to me as a member of the international service of the United Nations; to discharge those functions and regulate my conduct with the interests of the United Nations only in view, and not to seek or accept instructions in regard to the performance of my duty from any government or authority external to the organization."

The last line of that oath specifies that an American citizen employed by the United Nations may not be instructed by his own government; in a manner he is superior to his own government. What happens to the minds of these Americans when Vishinsky calls Acheson a liar?

In his testimony before the McCarran Committee, Alfred J. Van Tassel, an American employed by the United Nations, protested against the hearings "because I feel they will create tremendous resentments against the United States throughout the world, by the countries of Asia, Africa and Europe.

This angered Senator Homer Ferguson who asked:

"Do you mean to say that if a committee of the United States Senate wants to find out whether or not citizens, no matter what their jobs may be, are Communists, whether they are engaged in subversive activities, that we have no right to do it, and that other nations, our allies, will resent that?"

Now, the importance of this colloquy is that actually Americans employed by the United Nations have ceased to think of themselves as American citizens. They are international officials. They make a distinction between those who are members of missions like Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt or Warren Austin, who may be patriots if they choose, with staff members who owe their allegiance to the international body and therefore are not free to be patriots. Van Tassel put it clearly in this language:

". . .there are the individual delegations to the United Nations which represent their individual governments, and I think that the governments are perfectly—any government is perfectly on sound ground to insist upon whatever standards they choose as the measure of loyalty in selecting those members of the missions. I don't think that that principle obtains at all for the Secretariat of the United Nations, where I think the entire question is whether or not you uphold the oath to the United Nations."

Few Americans can understand this language. They have been reared to believe that an American owes allegiance to the United States of America and to no other country and to no other body.

In superstition the third time is supposed to be the charm. But World War III certainly would not be charming.

FORBIDDEN RIVER

by AL CODY

Copyright, 1952, by Al Cody. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

WITH the path cleared of his last enemy and the river ahead, Rawls poised for the leap, new strength surging into him at an unlooked-for stroke of luck. Like the Varina, the Pride of Kansas had swung in close to shore, accepting what he, as pilot, had chosen for the best channel. By now it was past, but the Astrid, third in line and close at the heels of the others, was following the same course.

Rawls landed on the deck of the Astrid and teetered wildly, while a tomahawk thudded into the planking beside him, amid a rain of arrows and a few rifle shots. Guns replied sharply from both the Astrid and the Pride of Kansas, and with the lessening pull of the current, all three boats were picking up speed.

Everyone was crowding around Rawls, exclaiming as they began to understand what he had done. Lomax McQuestion pumped his hand and found his own palm crimson, but he disregarded that and thumped him on the back with a heartiness that gave no indication of displeasure. Even Mark Whirter grudgingly complimented him on his exploit.

"It was foolhardy—but wonderful" Kathleen said.

Astrid McQuestion was more eloquent. "You saved the lives of every one of us," she declared. "And I'm as grateful—as deeply grateful, Denny—as I've been completely a fool!"

It was almost as uncomfortable a moment as when the Indians had seemed to have him surrounded. Reading the look in Astrid's eyes, he knew that he had only to say the word to go on from where they had been before—and that this time she meant it. But somewhere in the running of the river, all the savor had been washed from that salt.

All three boats halted for the remainder of the night, a few miles upstream. Captain Dudley looked sharply at Rawls as they came to a general meeting the next morning, but he made no reference to the delay of the Astrid or to his own boat going second, save to explain to McQuestion that, when the Astrid had loitered, he'd figured it best to swing in without waste of time.

McQuestion was not ill-pleased with the way matters had worked out. If he had any suspicion that Rawls could have guessed at what was in the wind, it was not a thought to be voiced. And since all three packets had made the run in safety, without the need to give any bribe, he could afford to join in the general chorus of praise.

The Pride of Kansas was the first to take off, Dudley waving and promising to see them again at Fort Benton. There was delay for the other boats in getting under way—for a reason of which Rawls knew nothing at the moment.

Astrid, following a custom begun when she was first able to talk, and continued virtually without interruption since, was in her father's cabin laying down the law to her indulgent parent.

"I want Denny Rawls brought on board the Astrid for the rest of the journey!" she said, and regarded Mark Whirter coldly. "I made a bad mistake, back at St. Louis, listening to him!" she informed her father. "So did you! But it's not too late to rectify it."

"What do you mean, a bad mistake?" Whirter interrupted. "You're not putting that interfering Yankee ahead of me, are you, Astrid?"

"My understanding was that Yankees came from down East, around New England," she retorted, with a toss of her head. "Captain Rawls never saw New England in his life."

"That's quibbling," Whirter growled. "He's on the Yankee side, which is what counts."

"I thought I was doing the right thing when I helped you in that plot. It has succeeded; and what you do now doesn't concern me in the least. But I've found that I made a mistake. It's Denny that I love, and that's all that interests me."

Her forthright declaration was no great surprise to Whirter. He had seen signs of it for some time, and only a few days earlier she had informed him bluntly that she cared for none of his lovemaking.

There was a stirring of jealousy in him, for it rankled to be displaced by another man. But he didn't greatly care. Whether Astrid or anyone else realized it, a moment of destiny was approaching—destiny for nations as well as individuals. In such a situation, lesser emotions didn't matter, nor did it count for much from now on whether or not he was slated to be son-in-law to Lomax McQuestion. Downriver that had been important and generally understood between the three of them—important not on account of Astrid, but because it gave him a needed leverage over McQuestion, who owned this boat.

That reason had pretty well vanished, as they'd discover one of these days.

"Do you think that Rawls is a tame puppy, to be whistled back to heel whenever you feel like it?" he demanded. "If you do, you're in for a surprise."

"No, I don't think that," Astrid confessed. "He's a man—which I'm only belatedly discovering." The unvoiced comparison brought a flush to Whirter's cheek, but disregarding him, she swung back to her father.

"I made a mistake," she repeated. "Now I want to correct it. So will you have him brought on board the Astrid?"

McQuestion shook his head. "No," he said. "And I'll tell you why. In the first place, that wouldn't help you. It would be too obvious. And in the second, he's needed on the Varina. You'll have a chance to see him, for both boats will stay together from now on."

He spoke boldly, hiding a cover of uneasiness, but to his surprise she raised no objection.

"Very well," she agreed. "In that case, I'll transfer to the Varina. It will be better for the womenfolks to be together. That's logical."

McQuestion looked at Whirter, and threw up his hands. "You see?"

Whirter shrugged. "You'll be placing the poor devil in hot water," he said. "That's all right with me."

Rawls witnessed the move uneasily. It was plain enough that Astrid had changed her mind, and she was not one to hide her emotions from the world. Many people appeared to have re-evaluated him during the course of the night. To his surprise, Sol Sherwood took occasion to speak as opportunity offered. He still walked like a pouter pigeon, but there was a new respect in his manner.

"You'd ought to be on our side, Cap'n," he said earnestly. "With what's comin', you're just the man we need.

"Just what do you mean by that?" Rawls asked.

Sherwood glanced around, then went on hastily. "You'll be findin' out what's in the wind," he confided. "All I can say now is, it's big. But since you're in it, anyway, one way or the other, wouldn't it be better all around for you to be in with us and get your share of the pickings? I can tell you this, Cap'n. After last night, all the boys feel a lot better if you was leadin' us. You take over when the time comes, and we'll follow you to hell and back."

Winking, he turned and went about his business, leaving Rawls to ponder his meaning, and to wonder anew exactly what Mark Whirter had in mind. A while ago he'd figured it as merely a job of running whiskey and guns, but his suspicion was growing that it was bigger than that.

Appendicitis Rare in Babies

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

APPENDICITIS is not too often seen in young infants, but when it does occur at this age, it can be fairly hard to treat.

Modern methods of caring for babies before and after operations are now making it possible to handle even these difficult cases, however.

Only one-tenth of one per cent of infants under two years of age who are in hospitals are there for appendicitis. For two-year-olds, this number increases seven times, and becomes more common as the infant approaches childhood and adulthood.

Symptoms Different

The symptoms of appendicitis in infants are also much different from those of older children and adults. It is extremely hard for even the most skilled physician to diagnose the condition in a baby.

A child who keeps vomiting, cannot eat properly, frets continuously, and develops diarrhea, constipation, and fever may lead the doctor to suspect appendicitis. Usually there is also some pain over the appendix.

An examination by the physician through the rectum is sometimes very helpful in making a diagnosis.

However, the symptoms are so similar to so many other diseases that they definitely present a more or less "hit or miss" proposition. Many times the diagnosis is missed for a few days, giving the appendix time to rupture.

Operation Difficult

Once the diagnosis is made, an operation on a baby is much more difficult than on an adult. Usually an infant has to be prepared carefully with nourishing food before surgery can be performed. A small needle may be inserted into a vein in order to feed the baby before and after surgery. To do this, a small cut must be made in the skin.

Usually a tube is also inserted into the child's stomach to keep it empty immediately before and after surgery.

Antibiotics Help

The antibiotic drugs have helped tremendously in making appendicitis attacks less severe and reducing the complications of operations in infants.

Recently a study was made on a group of 21 infants with appendicitis. Only a few of these cases were unsuccessful, and these occurred in infants who were not given the necessary amounts of fluids or antibiotics before and after the operation.

Newer methods of nutrition and preventing infection will thus save the life of many an infant facing surgery of the appendix.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. N.: What are the symptoms of asthma?

Answer: The symptoms of asthma are severe shortness of breath, with wheezing and coughing. A person with this disorder usually coughs strenuously and excessively in order to expel the thick plugs that may be present in the tubes leading to the air sacs of the lungs. As the disease progresses to a severe degree, there may be cyanosis or a blue-colored skin due to lack of an adequate amount of oxygen reaching the tissues.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — The incoming administration and Congress will have to recognize the existence of growing opposition among our overseas allies to American domination of world affairs through our allegedly one-sided use of our great military and financial power.

Although these threatening developments have been obscured by the campaign excitement, they will necessitate a complete review and possible revision of the Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

When it is fully revealed, the extent and depth of this revolt against our international manners will probably fall on resentful ears in this country, especially on Capitol Hill.

In view of the fact that the United States has spent $40 billion for foreign aid and recovery in the postwar years, the charge of ingratitude will be hurled at the expanding circle of critics.

ALLAYING FEARS—But Secretary Acheson and our diplomatic corps are aware and alarmed at this trend. They are seeking to allay these fears and prejudices in quiet talks with foreign representatives at the current United Nations sessions in New York. But it is obvious that no definite or positive remedial reforms can be undertaken by the outgoing regime.

Only the next President can pass judgment on this extremely difficult and ominous questioning of our motives and objectives. As a result, after Jan. 20, almost every trans-Atlantic plane will carry to Washington the most distinguished invasion of European emissaries since World War II days, possibly including Churchill, Schuman, Adenauer, etc.

BIG BOSS—Despite attempts to suppress the fact until after yesterday's election, our European associates have flatly informed us that they will not accept any more American money for strictly economic help. They complain because, in return, we have demanded a certain right to supervise their use of our funds.

We have tried to boss them on such items as profits, taxes, prices, labor relationships, etc. We have acted like a combination of banker and shop foreman in their internal affairs.

They endured this interference in the early postwar years. But their prolonged dependency has grated on them. It also furnishes ammunition to their political opposition, especially the Communists, who declare that their governments have become "wards of Uncle Sam."

REINFORCEMENTS—No savings in forthcoming presidential budgets will result from our compliance with their demand, however. They will insist on greatly increased funds for military assistance, especially the purchases of arms manufactured in their own countries.

As further evidence of the insistence on getting away from our apron strings, even friendly UN members have turned deaf ears to Acheson's current pleas for more military reinforcement in Korea. The U. S. has become the UN's agent in fact as well as in name.

London points out that, in addition to her forces engaged in Malaya, Burma and elsewhere, she has done as much as she could in the "police action." Paris notes that her expenditures in resisting Communist invasion of Indo-China has cost twice what she has received from us under plans.

Both nations regard their efforts in these areas as important to "containment of Communism" as the U. S.-sponsored war in Korea.

REBUFF — Another premonitory indication of our involuntary "isolation" occurred at a recent UN session, when 21 members voted against us on the question of making Yugoslavia a member of a key committee. The rebuff to ourselves and our Balkan ally was generally overlooked because we were more concerned with political than with world affairs.

Our opposition consisted of Asian and South American countries, together with Russia and her satellites. Although anti-Communistic, the Asian and South American nations expressed belief that we were trying to run UN affairs for our own interests rather than for the common good. Prime Minister Nehru's spokesman lined up against us.

RUSSIAN WAR—Fundamentally, many foreign nations and important elements abroad fear that the U. S. is heading straight for war with Russia, and they want no part of it because it will be fought on their home grounds.

In certain respects, they think that Truman and Acheson have been as bellicose as Stalin and Vishinsky, strange as that may seem to us. They see scant difference between what they describe as "Russian aggression" and "American imperialism."

Although bitterly anti-Moscow, Nehru has said, in effect, that "we need bread, not guns," adding sardonically that his people might not survive to use the guns unless they have bread to eat in the meantime. Indeed, that is the cry — and complaint—against us from all the "backward and undeveloped" lands.

Thus it appears that the next administration must formulate an entirely different program from the stalemating Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

A FALLACY

PERHAPS ONE OF THE leading fallacies of the times is the assumption that a left winger is a liberal and a right winger a reactionary.

The left winger of today thinks and acts in terms of ever more powerful government. The right winger, while usually willing to concede that some regulation is necessary, wants to minimize it, abolishing the freedom of the individual to act for himself.

Indeed, the right wingers of today are closer to true liberalism of the nineteenth century than are the left wingers.

The left winger would have the government do everything and finally own everything. Then there would be that total government which such great liberals as Jefferson denounced and from which ancestors of Americans of today fled to establish this nation of individual and political freedom.

The left winger is trending toward the ultimate in reaction, which is the individual completely dominated by the state. The right winger is at least fighting a delaying action against that trend, and is being termed a reactionary for his pains.

AN ENCOURAGING EFFORT

IN MANILA A NEW Philippine spirit of responsibility and even leadership is clearly developing. Since 1945 the government has been whipsawed by its factions. Resentment over the crimp in Japanese reparations, doubts and fears concerning American trade, a slow-moving land reform, and the Hukbalahap troubles have helped contribute toward a fumbling and neurotic approach to the big problem: security in the Pacific.

But the Manila conference, just over, indicates the political typhoon season is about over too. Even the maverick Nationalist Party seems to be getting behind President Quirino in his push for ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty of San Francisco. Even more encouraging, is Quirino's making a major creative effort toward a mutual defense system for all the old and new countries of the western Pacific and southeastern Asia. That may be a long time coming.

But the very fact that the president of the Philippines is for such a union is good for the whole climate of Pacific security.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Americans employed by the United Nations take an oath of loyalty to the United Nations. The question then arises whether an American can take an oath of loyalty and obedience to an international body which may sit in judgment of the United States and which can vote against the United States should a situation arise.

This is the oath:

"I solemnly swear to exercise, in all loyalty, discretion and conscience, the functions entrusted to me as a member of the international service of the United Nations; to discharge those functions and regulate my conduct with the interests of the United Nations only in view, and not to seek or accept instructions in regard to the performance of my duty from any government or authority external to the organization."

The last line of that oath specifies that an American citizen employed by the United Nations may not be instructed by his own government; in a manner he is superior to his own government. What happens to the minds of these Americans when Vishinsky calls Acheson a liar?

In his testimony before the McCarran Committee, Alfred J. Van Tassel, an American employed by the United Nations, protested against the hearings "because I feel they will create tremendous resentments against the United States throughout the world, by the countries of Asia, Africa and Europe.

This angered Senator Homer Ferguson who asked:

"Do you mean to say that if a committee of the United States Senate wants to find out whether or not citizens, no matter what their jobs may be, are Communists, whether they are engaged in subversive activities, that we have no right to do it, and that other nations, our allies, will resent that?"

Now, the importance of this colloquy is that actually Americans employed by the United Nations have ceased to think of themselves as American citizens. They are international officials. They make a distinction between those who are members of missions like Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt or Warren Austin, who may be patriots if they choose, with staff members who owe their allegiance to the international body and therefore are not free to be patriots. Van Tassel put it clearly in this language:

". . .there are the individual delegations to the United Nations which represent their individual governments, and I think that the governments are perfectly—any government is perfectly on sound ground to insist upon whatever standards they choose as the measure of loyalty in selecting those members of the missions. I don't think that that principle obtains at all for the Secretariat of the United Nations, where I think the entire question is whether or not you uphold the oath to the United Nations."

Few Americans can understand this language. They have been reared to believe that an American owes allegiance to the United States of America and to no other country and to no other body.

FORBIDDEN RIVER

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

WITH the path cleared of his last enemy and the river ahead, Rawls poised for the leap, new strength surging into him at an unlooked-for stroke of luck. Like the Varina, the Pride of Kansas had swung in close to shore, accepting what he, as pilot, had chosen for the best channel. By now it was past, but the Astrid, third in line and close at the heels of the others, was following the same course.

Rawls landed on the deck of the Astrid and teetered wildly, while a tomahawk thudded into the planking beside him, amid a rain of arrows and a few rifle shots. Guns replied sharply from both the Astrid and the Pride of Kansas, and with the lessening pull of the current, all three boats were picking up speed.

Everyone was crowding around Rawls, exclaiming as they began to understand what he had done. Lomax McQuestion pumped his hand and found his own palm crimson, but he disregarded that and thumped him on the back with a heartiness that gave no indication of displeasure. Even Mark Whirter grudgingly complimented him on his exploit.

"It was foolhardy—but wonderful" Kathleen said.

Astrid McQuestion was more eloquent. "You saved the lives of every one of us," she declared. "And I'm as grateful—as deeply grateful, Denny—as I've been completely a fool!"

It was almost as uncomfortable a moment as when the Indians had seemed to have him surrounded. Reading the look in Astrid's eyes, he knew that he had only to say the word to go on from where they had been before—and that this time she meant it. But somewhere in the running of the river, all the savor had been washed from that salt.

All three boats halted for the remainder of the night, a few miles upstream. Captain Dudley looked sharply at Rawls as they came to a general meeting the next morning, but he made no reference to the delay of the Astrid or to his own boat going second, save to explain to McQuestion that, when the Astrid had loitered, he'd figured it best to swing in without waste of time.

McQuestion was not ill-pleased with the way matters had worked out. If he had any suspicion that Rawls could have guessed at what was in the wind, it was not a thought to be voiced. And since all three packets had made the run in safety, without the need to give any bribe, he could afford to join in the general chorus of praise.

The Pride of Kansas was the first to take off, Dudley waving and promising to see them again at Fort Benton. There was delay for the other boats in getting under way—for a reason of which Rawls knew nothing at the moment.

Astrid, following a custom begun when she was first able to talk, and continued virtually without interruption since, was in her father's cabin laying down the law to her indulgent parent.

"I want Denny Rawls brought on board the Astrid for the rest of the journey!" she said, and regarded Mark Whirter coldly. "I made a bad mistake, back at St. Louis, listening to him!" she informed her father. "So did you! But it's not too late to rectify it."

"What do you mean, a bad mistake?" Whirter interrupted. "You're not putting that interfering Yankee ahead of me, are you, Astrid?"

"My understanding was that Yankees came from down East, around New England," she retorted, with a toss of her head. "Captain Rawls never saw New England in his life."

"That's quibbling," Whirter growled. "He's on the Yankee side, which is what counts."

"I thought I was doing the right thing when I helped you in that plot. It has succeeded; and what you do now doesn't concern me in the least. But I've found that I made a mistake. It's Denny that I love, and that's all that interests me."

Her forthright declaration was no great surprise to Whirter. He had seen signs of it for some time, and only a few days earlier she had informed him bluntly that she cared for none of his lovemaking.

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — The incoming administration and Congress will have to recognize the existence of growing opposition among our overseas allies to American domination of world affairs through our allegedly one-sided use of our great military and financial power.

Although these threatening developments have been obscured by the campaign excitement, they will necessitate a complete review and possible revision of the Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

When it is fully revealed, the extent and depth of this revolt against our international manners will probably fall on resentful ears in this country, especially on Capitol Hill.

In view of the fact that the United States has spent $40 billion for foreign aid and recovery in the postwar years, the charge of ingratitude will be hurled at the expanding circle of critics.

ALLAYING FEARS—But Secretary Acheson and our diplomatic corps are aware and alarmed at this trend. They are seeking to allay these fears and prejudices in quiet talks with foreign representatives at the current United Nations sessions in New York. But it is obvious that no definite or positive remedial reforms can be undertaken by the outgoing regime.

Only the next President can pass judgment on this extremely difficult and ominous questioning of our motives and objectives. As a result, after Jan. 20, almost every trans-Atlantic plane will carry to Washington the most distinguished invasion of European emissaries since World War II days, possibly including Churchill, Schuman, Adenauer, etc.

BIG BOSS—Despite attempts to suppress the fact until after yesterday's election, our European associates have flatly informed us that they will not accept any more American money for strictly economic help. They complain because, in return, we have demanded a certain right to supervise their use of our funds.

We have tried to boss them on such items as profits, taxes, prices, labor relationships, etc. We have acted like a combination of banker and shop foreman in their internal affairs.

They endured this interference in the early postwar years. But their prolonged dependency has grated on them. It also furnishes ammunition to their political opposition, especially the Communists, who declare that their governments have become "wards of Uncle Sam."

REINFORCEMENTS—No savings in forthcoming presidential budgets will result from our compliance with their demand, however. They will insist on greatly increased funds for military assistance, especially the purchases of arms manufactured in their own countries.

As further evidence of the insistence on getting away from our apron strings, even friendly UN members have turned deaf ears to Acheson's current pleas for more military reinforcement in Korea. The U. S. has become the UN's agent in fact as well as in name.

London points out that, in addition to her forces engaged in Malaya, Burma and elsewhere, she has done as much as she could in the "police action." Paris notes that her expenditures in resisting Communist invasion of Indo-China has cost twice what she has received from us under plans.

Both nations regard their efforts in these areas as important to "containment of Communism" as the U. S.-sponsored war in Korea.

REBUFF — Another premonitory indication of our involuntary "isolation" occurred at a recent UN session, when 21 members voted against us on the question of making Yugoslavia a member of a key committee. The rebuff to ourselves and our Balkan ally was generally overlooked because we were more concerned with political than with world affairs.

Our opposition consisted of Asian and South American countries, together with Russia and her satellites. Although anti-Communistic, the Asian and South American nations expressed belief that we were trying to run UN affairs for our own interests rather than for the common good. Prime Minister Nehru's spokesman lined up against us.

RUSSIAN WAR—Fundamentally, many foreign nations and important elements abroad fear that the U. S. is heading straight for war with Russia, and they want no part of it because it will be fought on their home grounds.

In certain respects, they think that Truman and Acheson have been as bellicose as Stalin and Vishinsky, strange as that may seem to us. They see scant difference between what they describe as "Russian aggression" and "American imperialism."

Although bitterly anti-Moscow, Nehru has said, in effect, that "we need bread, not guns," adding sardonically that his people might not survive to use the guns unless they have bread to eat in the meantime. Indeed, that is the cry — and complaint— against us from all the "backward and undeveloped" lands.

Thus it appears that the next administration must formulate an entirely different program from the stalemating Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

Chrysanthemums Discussed During Garden Club Meet

Miss McKenzie Serves As Hostess

Twenty-nine members and four guests of the Kingston Garden Club answered roll call at the meeting Tuesday afternoon by naming a favorite Autumn flower.

The meeting was held in the home of Miss Ruth McKenzie of Circleville Route 1 with Mrs. Amey Landis, Mrs. Ralph Head and Mrs. Charles Mootz as assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Head conducted the meeting and a report of the all day meeting of the Ross County Federation of Garden Clubs, held Oct. 29 in Chillicothe Salem church, was given by Mrs. Don Miller.

She reported that Mrs. Wade Cozad, regional director for district nine of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs, presided at the meeting. During the morning session, Fred Keeler, Ross County Agricultural Agent, spoke on the geology of scenic Ross County.

The luncheon at noon was in charge of members of the Liberty Garden Club and the program for the afternoon consisted of a talk on preserving and arranging flowers for Winter bouquets, given by Mrs. Cozad and Mrs. Edward Ray, editor of "Garden Path", both of Lancaster.

Other reports were given on winners in the Ross County Federation Flower Show held in Chillicothe, and winners in the Pumpkin Show.

The program for the meeting consisted of a panel discussion on, "Chrysanthemums", given by Miss Helen Hoffman, Mrs. E. C. Wilkins, Mrs. Turney Pontious, Mrs. Pryor Harmount and Mrs. Miller.

They concluded that for best results chrysanthemum cuttings should be planted in the Spring, fertilized once a month with liquid fertilizer, planted in soil containing about one third peat moss, watered plentifully during dry seasons and dusted with good commercial insecticide. They stated that the ground should be kept loose around the plant and for specimen flowers, side buds should be removed.

For the next session, the group plans to present an open meeting at the Kingston Methodist Church at 2 p. m. Dec. 2, with Mrs. Walter Hughes of Clarksburg as guest demonstrator. She will discuss indoor Christmas arrangements and the display will be by members of the Mt. Pleasant and Kingston Garden Clubs.

Sea Waves Speed Up To 400 Mph.

HONOLULU, Nov. 5 — (AP)—A massive convulsion of the earth's crust deep under the Pacific Ocean off Siberia hurtled seismic sea waves a quarter of the way around the world Tuesday at jet plane speed.

Mighty walls of water lashed the Aleutians, Midway and Hawaii. Lesser waves washed against the Pacific shores of Canada and the United States. The seismic shocks burst out of the sea of Okhotsk, between Siberia and Japan. They generated waves which streaked across the Pacific at more than 400 miles an hour. There was no loss of life and little damage.

Morse Says Ike 'Fooled People'

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 5—(AP)—U. S. Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who resigned from the Republican Party to support Gov. Stevenson, said today "Eisenhower and Nixon fooled the people and the people lost the election." He declared:

"We must close ranks in the national interest by supporting anything the Republicans propose which will be good for the country, and fearlessly oppose Republican proposals which will endanger our domestic welfare and the winning of an honorable peace."

The Union Pacific Railroad used 3.5 million tons of coal in 1951.

Ike Labeled As Being Very Sports-Minded

President-Elect Once Played Football, But Favors Golfing Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—(AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is perhaps the most sports - minded chief executive in our nation's history.

He was a football player at West Point, proud of the fact he once tackled the great Jim Thorpe. He took a brief fling at baseball in the Central League. Today, still at his old playing weight of 173 pounds, he shoots a bangup game of golf.

When A. B. (Happy) Chandler was dismissed as commissioner of baseball more than a year ago, Eisenhower was among those considered for the post. But his duties as NATO chief in Europe were too important.

Ike is an avid sports fan.

"Football is a tremendous spectacle," he says. "Remember I saw my first game from the sidelines with Gus Dorais (Notre Dame) throwing passes to the Rock (Knute Rockne)."

He told a group of sports figures at a New York tete-a-tete recently:

• • •

"TODAY I CAN go to a major league baseball game and come away a raving maniac."

Golf is the President-elect's game today and he's planning to go away and play 10 days of golf as relaxation after the strenuous campaign.

One of his regular playing partners in recent weeks has been Cliff Roberts of Augusta, Ga., and New York, who hosts the famous Masters Tournament in Georgia.

"Ike hits a long ball off the tee," Roberts said. "He's a very good golfer, regularly in the 80s."

Eisenhower is more modest. He says his figure is 90 and up but acknowledged he fired a 79 two years ago in Port Chester, N. Y., and recently had an 82.

Roberts was with him when he shot the 82. "He had a birdie on the par four 14th," Roberts said. "He had two good hits and sank a 12-foot putt."

Eisenhower carries in his bag a putter used by Jack Westland in the latter's surprising triumph in the National Amateur Golf Championship at Seattle last summer. Westland, 47, ran for Congress from Washington.

Ike wasn't an outstanding gridiron star at the Point. He played fullback, did plunging duties and backed up the line.

He recalled the game he played against Carlisle Indians. "It was a pleasure to see a guy like Thorpe running by," he said.

It was against Tufts in 1913 that Eisenhower suffered a torn cartilage in his knee, cutting short his athletic career. "It took five days to straighten out the leg," he said.

Record Turnout Sighted By OSU

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5—(AP)—If the weatherman cooperates, the biggest crowd ever to see an Ohio State-Pittsburgh football game here may be on hand Saturday when the Bucks and the Panthers renew their gridiron rivalry.

Ohio State officials predicted an attendance of 75,000 to 77,000 if the weather is right. The previous high for an OSU-Pitt game was 74,703.

Wagner Booked Against Sabotin

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5—(AP)—Dick Wagner, Topponish, Wash., fighter, will be at the top weight of his fighting career at 174 pounds Wednesday night.

He is booked for a 10-rounder in Cleveland Arena against Earl (Lalu) Sabotin of Warren.

Sea Waves Speed Up To 400 Mph.

HONOLULU, Nov. 5 — (AP)—A massive convulsion of the earth's crust deep under the Pacific Ocean off Siberia hurtled seismic sea waves a quarter of the way around the world Tuesday at jet plane speed.

Mighty walls of water lashed the Aleutians, Midway and Hawaii. Lesser waves washed against the Pacific shores of Canada and the United States. The seismic shocks burst out of the sea of Okhotsk, between Siberia and Japan. They generated waves which streaked across the Pacific at more than 400 miles an hour. There was no loss of life and little damage.

"We must close ranks in the national interest by supporting anything the Republicans propose which will be good for the country, and fearlessly oppose Republican proposals which will endanger our domestic welfare and the winning of an honorable peace."

The Union Pacific Railroad used 3.5 million tons of coal in 1951.

Ike Labeled As Being Very Sports-Minded

President-Elect Once Played Football, But Favors Golfing Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—(AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is perhaps the most sports - minded chief executive in our nation's history.

He was a football player at West Point, proud of the fact he once tackled the great Jim Thorpe. He took a brief fling at baseball in the Central League. Today, still at his old playing weight of 173 pounds, he shoots a bangup game of golf.

When A. B. (Happy) Chandler was dismissed as commissioner of baseball more than a year ago, Eisenhower was among those considered for the post. But his duties as NATO chief in Europe were too important.

Ike is an avid sports fan.

"Football is a tremendous spectacle," he says. "Remember I saw my first game from the sidelines with Gus Dorais (Notre Dame) throwing passes to the Rock (Knute Rockne)."

He told a group of sports figures at a New York tete-a-tete recently:

* * *

"TODAY I CAN go to a major league baseball game and come away a raving maniac."

Golf is the President-elect's game today and he's planning to go away and play 10 days of golf as relaxation after the strenuous campaign.

One of his regular playing partners in recent weeks has been Cliff Roberts of Augusta, Ga., and New York, who hosts the famous Masters Tournament in Georgia.

"Ike hits a long ball off the tee," Roberts said. "He's a very good golfer, regularly in the 80s."

Eisenhower is more modest. He says his figure is 90 and up but acknowledged he fired a 79 two years ago in Port Chester, N. Y., and recently had an 82.

Roberts was with him when he shot the 82. "He had a birdie on the par four 14th," Roberts said. "He had two good hits and sank a 12-foot putt."

Eisenhower carries in his bag a putter used by Jack Westland in the latter's surprising triumph in the National Amateur Golf Championship at Seattle last summer. Westland, 47, ran for Congress from Washington.

Ike wasn't an outstanding gridiron star at the Point. He played fullback, did plunging duties and backed up the line.

He recalled the game he played against Carlisle Indians. "It was a pleasure to see a guy like Thorpe running by," he said.

It was against Tufts in 1913 that Eisenhower suffered a torn cartilage in his knee, cutting short his athletic career. "It took five days to straighten out the leg," he said.

Record Turnout Sighted By OSU

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5—(AP)—If the weatherman cooperates, the biggest crowd ever to see an Ohio State-Pittsburgh football game here may be on hand Saturday when the Bucks and the Panthers renew their gridiron rivalry.

Ohio State officials predicted an attendance of 75,000 to 77,000 if the weather is right. The previous high for an OSU-Pitt game was 74,703.

Wagner Booked Against Sabotin

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5—(AP)—Dick Wagner, Topponish, Wash., fighter, will be at the top weight of his fighting career at 174 pounds Wednesday night.

He is booked for a 10-rounder in Cleveland Arena against Earl (Lalu) Sabotin of Warren.

City Council Continues Studies On Damage Claims, Additions

City council, in addition to major action on a proposed local gas rate boost, considered a number of damage claims and other business Tuesday night.

An ordinance providing for settlement of a claim by former Councilman Ray Anderson of Town street was held to first reading. Anderson claims flooding of a sanitary sewer damaged his property.

Councilman Ray Cook, who helped hold the measure to first reading when an effort was made to pass it under suspension of rules, explained his action as follows:

"I have no objection to paying the money in this case. However, it isn't emergency legislation and I think it can wait until it has a chance to run through the mill."

ANOTHER CLAIM by J. E. Millirons was also held for routine consideration. Millirons claims his automobile was damaged when it was driven over a hole in a city street.

An ordinance providing for city acceptance of the Brokaw Subdivision was held to second reading. A similar measure on acceptance of the Joseph and Frances R. Moats Lovers Lane Subdivision was tabled indefinitely.

In the case of both subdivisions, councilmen are not yet satisfied necessary requirements have been met to permit acceptance.

An ordinance repealing an arrangement for refunds on extension of city water lines was passed on third and final reading. The arrangement in the past has been of interest especially to those developing new residential areas here.

Council passed a resolution under which the city will offer $1,000 in settlement of a two-part damage action, filed in behalf of Acris Campbell and his daughter, Barbara Mae.

The girl allegedly suffered permanent injuries when she tripped on a city sidewalk while carrying a milk bottle, which was broken by her fall.

PRIOR TO adjournment, Ervin Leist, city water and sewage department manager, described progress of the study being made toward fluoridation of the city's water supply. He said Circleville Kiwanis club had asked for a report on progress.

Under the present stage of the study, Leist explained, information is being compiled for the state health department.

Leist indicated the special treatment will not be introduced into the city water supply until next year.

Sokolsky's

Yet, here is a group of our citizens who have occupationally become separated from their own people. They have, while living within their own country, accepted a dual loyalty which can become incompatible with the interests of the United States.

In the case of Van Tassel, a third loyalty became apparent. It appears in this colloquy:

"Mr. Morris. Are you presently a member of the Communist Party?

"Mr. Van Tassel. I decline to state, sir, on the basis of the protection afforded by the Fifth Amendment."

Every Communist is a Russian agent who owes his loyalty to the Kremlin. This is true of a Communist in every country in the world.

Van Tassel does not deny that he is a Communist; his testimony, in effect, is that it will incriminate him if he denes it. As it is not a crime to be a member of the Communist Party, in the United States such incrimination can only come from perjury.

Should an American hold a position in an international body, of which the United States is a member, who cannot tell the truth lest it incriminate him?

As one reads the testimony before the McCarran Committee, it becomes increasingly distressing that a man like Van Tassel, whose family has been in this country 300 years, should have this view of divided loyalty.

It is frightening.

City Council Continues Studies On Damage Claims, Additions

City council, in addition to major action on a proposed local gas rate boost, considered a number of damage claims and other business Tuesday night.

An ordinance providing for settlement of a claim by former Councilman Ray Anderson of Town street was held to first reading. Anderson claims flooding of a sanitary sewer damaged his property.

Councilman Ray Cook, who helped hold the measure to first reading when an effort was made to pass it under suspension of rules, explained his action as follows:

"I have no objection to paying the money in this case. However, it isn't emergency legislation and I think it can wait until it has a chance to run through the mill."

ANOTHER CLAIM by J. E. Millirons was also held for routine consideration. Millirons claims his automobile was damaged when it was driven over a hole in a city street.

An ordinance providing for city acceptance of the Brokaw Subdivision was held to second reading. A similar measure on acceptance of the Joseph and Frances R. Moats Lovers Lane Subdivision was tabled indefinitely.

In the case of both subdivisions, councilmen are not yet satisfied necessary requirements have been met to permit acceptance.

An ordinance repealing an arrangement for refunds on extension of city water lines was passed on third and final reading. The arrangement in the past has been of interest especially to those developing new residential areas here.

Council passed a resolution under which the city will offer $1,000 in settlement of a two-part damage action, filed in behalf of Acris Campbell and his daughter, Barbara Mae.

The girl allegedly suffered permanent injuries when she tripped on a city sidewalk while carrying a milk bottle, which was broken by her fall.

PRIOR TO adjournment, Ervin Leist, city water and sewage department manager, described progress of the study being made toward fluoridation of the city's water supply. He said Circleville Kiwanis club had asked for a report on progress.

Under the present stage of the study, Leist explained, information is being compiled for the state health department.

Leist indicated the special treatment will not be introduced into the city water supply until next year.

Sokolsky's

Yet, here is a group of our citizens who have occupationally become separated from their own people. They have, while living within their own country, accepted a dual loyalty which can become incompatible with the interests of the United States.

In the case of Van Tassel, a third loyalty became apparent. It appears in this colloquy:

"Mr. Morris. Are you presently a member of the Communist Party?

"Mr. Van Tassel. I decline to state, sir, on the basis of the protection afforded by the Fifth Amendment."

Every Communist is a Russian agent who owes his loyalty to the Kremlin. This is true of a Communist in every country in the world.

Van Tassel does not deny that he is a Communist; his testimony, in effect, is that it will incriminate him if he denes it. As it is not a crime to be a member of the Communist Party, in the United States such incrimination can only come from perjury.

Should an American hold a position in an international body, of which the United States is a member, who cannot tell the truth lest it incriminate him?

As one reads the testimony before the McCarran Committee, it becomes increasingly distressing that a man like Van Tassel, whose family has been in this country 300 years, should have this view of divided loyalty.

It is frightening.

Expectancy For Dogs Is Now 11 Or 12

New Medicines Good For Man And Dog Alike

The dog is no longer leading a "dog's life," thanks to advances made in various fields of medicine and nutrition.

Man's best friend can now have a standard of living equal to man's.

All this is not news to the approximately 22 million dogs in this country. And not only is the dog's life safer and healthier today, but his life expectancy has increased, just as man's has.

While no official statistics are available, most experts feel that if a pup survives the disease hazards of the first year, and is not run down by an automobile, he can look forward to a ripe old age of 11 to 12 years. Less than a decade ago, his life expectancy was only seven or eight years.

LET'S SPECULATE for a minute on what has happened to place "Old Dog Tray" in such a preferred position. Specifically, great advances have been made in preventive and therapeutic medicines, in animal hospitals and personnel, and in nutrition.

In no other aspect of veterinary medicine have medicaments and preventives been developed more rapidly than in the field of canine practice.

At a giant laboratory, there is a special section devoted to researching and solving the various disease problems which make the dog's life hazardous and unpleasant. Out of this research have come some of the latest drugs for preventing and combating canine diseases.

One of these is a highly effective vaccine against distemper, most serious common disease in dogdom.

Regardless of how well you treat your pooch, or how purebred he is, he is still susceptible to this virus-caused disease unless properly protected. There was a time when distemper killed more dogs than many other diseases combined, but thanks to this new immunizing vaccine the picture is changing.

Rabies, the one-time horror of dogdom, need no longer cause fear and trembling. A new vaccine developed a little over a year ago gives solid, lasting immunity against rabies. It is a modified live virus vaccine which does not cause post-vaccinal paralysis, a reaction often as terrible as the diesase.

The "wonder-drugs" developed for human diseases are also playing an important role in elevating the dog's standards. The sulfa drugs, penicillin, and aureomycin are used for external and internal infections. Another drug developed for combating filariasis, a serious tropical disease which infects hundreds of millions of people, is being used by the veterinarian to combat heartworms and large roundworms in dogs.

Surprising development have occurred in the animal hospital field. There are about 2,500 animal hospitals today equipped to take care of 10 or more animals. The latest official listing reveals that there are about 13,000 licensed veterinarians in this country.

General Fund Again In Red, Seek Advance

City council at Tuesday night's meeting, faced with a general fund balance more than $3,500 "in the red," adopted a resolution to ask for a $10,000 advance on anticipated tax distribution.

The real estate tax distribution, it was announced, will not be available for two more weeks.

It was the second time in recent months the general fund balance has slumped into red figures.

Commenting on a report submitted by City Auditor Lillian Young for the month of October, Finance Chairman George Crites stressed that the city's efforts to obtain admission tax revenue from the fairgrounds speedway have so far been unsuccessful.

THE AUDITOR'S report, listing the fund, receipts, expenditures and balances, was accepted as follows:

General fund, 4,461.80, 10,546.79, -3,634.79; water works operating fund, 6,397.86, 4,558.80, 19,378.48; sewage disposal fund, 2,425.77, 1,258.77, 6,128.35; auto street repair fund, 746.05, 1,457.93, 1,383.22; gasoline tax fund, 3,317.50, 3,059.87, 2,176.07; water works trust fund, 80, 70, 1,670; police pension fund, 127.62, 260.56, 8,590.96; fire pension fund, 110.28, 125, 11,921.85; water works improvement, extension fund, (none), 578.35, 6,202.44.

Parking meter collections totalled $910 for the month, and admission tax receipts were $355.93.

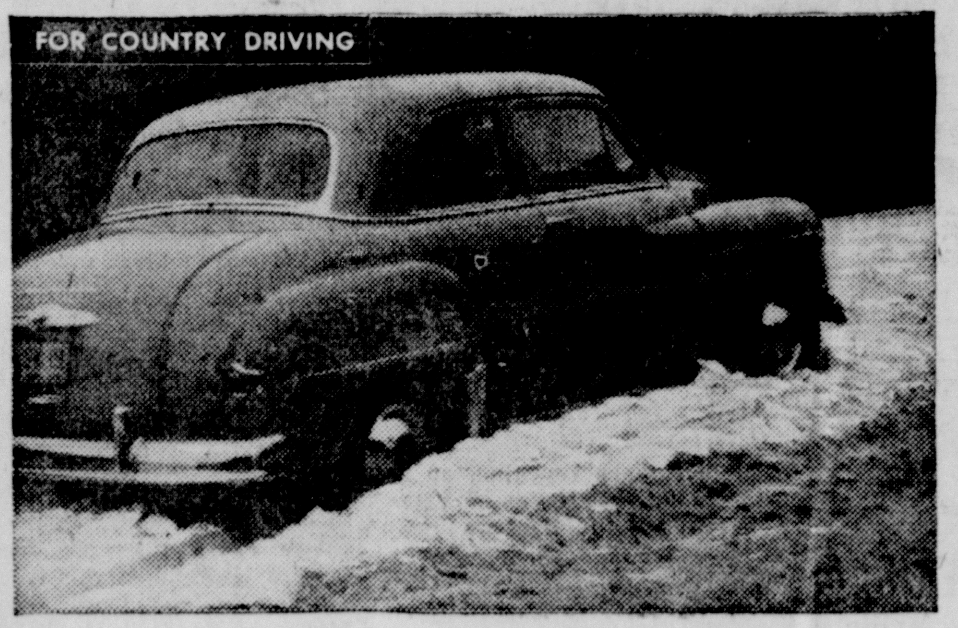
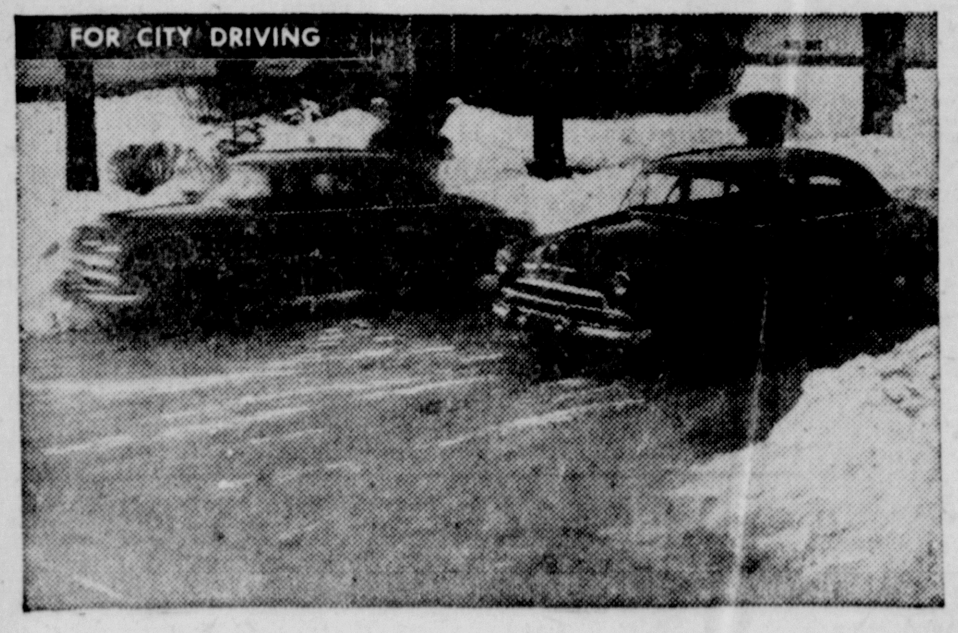
gives you a choice of two tires
to fit your winter driving conditions



B. F. Goodrich Mud-Snow Tires for deep snow, steep snowy hills and mud
If you do much driving in deep snow, or steep snowy hills or on muddy country roads, the BFG Mud-Snow tire is for you. Impartial tests supervised by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory prove it. They show that in deep snow the BFG Mud-Snow Tire gives up to 24% more pulling power than regular tires, stops you 25% faster. In mud, it gives up to 25% more traction.



B. F. Goodrich "Life-Saver" Tubeless Tire for ice, light snow and wet pavement
If you live where deep snow and mud aren't serious problems, the BFG "Life-Saver" is a year-round tire that gives all the protection you need.
On roads made slippery by rain, ice or packed snow, it outstops, outpulls regular passenger car tires. It has 10,000 flexible "grip-blocks" that grip like a caterpillar tread. And they give more mileage too.
Protects against blowouts . . . seals punctures. The "LIFE-SAVER" gives more protection than any tire and blowout-protecting inner tube. Yet it costs less!

UP TO 6 MONTHS TO PAY
It's dangerous to drive on slippery roads with old tires that have lost their grip. It's a nuisance to be caught in the first snowfall with no traction or stopping ability. Trade in your old, smooth tires now — when it's convenient to make a change for the better and while your tires still have good trade-in value.

General Fund Again In Red, Seek Advance

City council at Tuesday night's meeting, faced with a general fund balance more than $3,500 "in the red," adopted a resolution to ask for a $10,000 advance on anticipated tax distribution.

The real estate tax distribution, it was announced, will not be available for two more weeks.

It was the second time in recent months the general fund balance has slumped into red figures.

Commenting on a report submitted by City Auditor Lillian Young for the month of October, Finance Chairman George Crites stressed that the city's efforts to obtain admission tax revenue from the fairgrounds speedway have so far been unsuccessful.

THE AUDITOR'S report, listing the fund, receipts, expenditures and balances, was accepted as follows:

General fund, 4,461.80, 10,546.79, -3,634.79; water works operating fund, 6,397.86, 4,558.80, 19,378.48; sewage disposal fund, 2,425.77, 1,258.77, 6,128.35; auto street repair fund, 746.05, 1,457.93, 1,383.22; gasoline tax fund, 3,317.50, 3,059.87, 2,176.07; water works trust fund, 80, 70, 1,670; police pension fund, 127.62, 260.56, 8,590.96; fire pension fund, 110.28, 125, 11,921.85; water works improvement, extension fund, (none), 578.35, 6,202.44.

Parking meter collections totalled $910 for the month, and admission tax receipts were $355.93.

Expectancy For Dogs Is Now 11 Or 12

New Medicines Good For Man And Dog Alike

The dog is no longer leading a "dog's life," thanks to advances made in various fields of medicine and nutrition.

Man's best friend can now have a standard of living equal to man's.

All this is not news to the approximately 22 million dogs in this country. And not only is the dog's life safer and healthier today, but his life expectancy has increased, just as man's has.

While no official statistics are available, most experts feel that if a pup survives the disease hazards of the first year, and is not run down by an automobile, he can look forward to a ripe old age of 11 to 12 years. Less than a decade ago, his life expectancy was only seven or eight years.

LET'S SPECULATE for a minute on what has happened to place "Old Dog Tray" in such a preferred position. Specifically, great advances have been made in preventive and therapeutic medicines, in animal hospitals and personnel, and in nutrition.

In no other aspect of veterinary medicine have medicaments and preventives been developed more rapidly than in the field of canine practice.

At a giant laboratory, there is a special section devoted to researching and solving the various disease problems which make the dog's life hazardous and unpleasant. Out of this research have come some of the latest drugs for preventing and combating canine diseases.

One of these is a highly effective vaccine against distemper, most serious common disease in dogdom.

Regardless of how well you treat your pooch, or how purebred he is, he is still susceptible to this virus-caused disease unless properly protected. There was a time when distemper killed more dogs than many other diseases combined, but thanks to this new immunizing vaccine the picture is changing.

Rabies, the one-time horror of dogdom, need no longer cause fear and trembling. A new vaccine developed a little over a year ago gives solid, lasting immunity against rabies. It is a modified live virus vaccine which does not cause post-vaccinal paralysis, a reaction often as terrible as the diesase.

The "wonder-drugs" developed for human diseases are also playing an important role in elevating the dog's standards. The sulfa drugs, penicillin, and aureomycin are used for external and internal infections. Another drug developed for combating filariasis, a serious tropical disease which infects hundreds of millions of people, is being used by the veterinarian to combat heartworms and large roundworms in dogs.

Surprising development have occurred in the animal hospital field. There are about 2,500 animal hospitals today equipped to take care of 10 or more animals. The latest official listing reveals that there are about 13,000 licensed veterinarians in this country.
